C. Of C. Committee Endorses League's Gas Tax Plan

J. L. M'BRIDE SAYS CITIES BEAR BURDEN

City Trustee Says Supervisors Have Failed to Aid Cities of County COULD REDUCE TAXES

Action Taken Last Night Unanimous After Many Speakers Give Views

SWINGING ITS support to the League of California Municipalities plan to return a fair share of the state gasoline tax money to cities, a special Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce gas tax committee, meeting last night in the city hall, passed a unanimous motion endorsing the League plan.

The motion, made by Charles Swanner and seconded by Charles Heinrich, came after considerable discussion of the respective merits of the League plan, the so-called Southern Counties plan and the Auto Club plan. The motion included notification of state legislators of the action taken.

During the meeting the charge was made by City Councilman J. L. McBride that Orange county has appropriated money for streets to help sell subdivided land, which he cited as a reason for the League of Municipalities' demand for direct allocation of a share of the fund to the cities rather than coming through the county.

A statement also was made by Supervisor Willard Smith acknowledging the fact that in the past the cities had not been given a fair share of the gas tax funds.

William Iverson, chairman of the committee, opened the meeting with a brief statement, declaring that the purpose of the meeting was to see if a reduction of local taxes could not be affected through obtaining a fair appropriation of the gas tax money.

The first speaker was E. E. East, chief engineer of the Auto Club of Southern California, who traced the history of the state highway system, stating that in 20 years California has built the finest system of roads in the nation. He explained how the sys-

ATTEMPT TO RECALL GOVERNOR DELAYED

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—A pending attempt to recall Gov. James Rolph was delayed today while efforts were made to obtain approval of the state grange's executive committee.

Circulation of recall petitions was urged by George H. Sehlmeier, master of the grange. Reports of the delay gave rise to rumors that the recall movement may be abandoned; that the grange and the Rolph administration may reach a compromise.

Several members of the grange have expressed resentment at Sehlmeier's action, assertedly made without knowledge of the executive committee. Various agricultural leaders have joined anti-recall forces, pointing out that such a movement at this time would "threaten progressive agricultural plans backed by the governor."

YACHT MURDER TRIAL PUT OFF UNTIL MONDAY

Wife of Murdered Man to Take Stand to Renew Her Accusations

LONG BEACH, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Trial of William James (Curley) Guy was in recess today until Monday, when Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell was scheduled to renew her accusations that the young Welsh adventurer sought revenge against her late husband, Capt. Walter Wanderwell, whom Guy is accused of killing.

The crowded courtroom was hushed as the blonde young widow told a story of mutiny on the high seas and a later attack on Wanderwell, who was shot to death aboard his anchored schooner, Carma, on the night of December 5.

Major part of yesterday's session was devoted to taking the jury of nine men and three women to the scene of the killing. The jurors walked the creaking, weatherbeaten decks of the Carma, now in drydock undergoing repairs at Fish Harbor, and then were taken to the Pacific and Orient docks where the former rum runner was moored on the night of the murder.

The jurors poked about the aged vessel, scanning the forward cabin where Wanderwell was shot as he stood with his back turned to the assassin. They peered curiously through a screened port-hole in an after cabin where four members of the Carma's commonwealth crew were seated when a stranger looked inside and asked for Wanderwell. At Guy's preliminary hearing, three of them identified the young Welshman as the stranger who had spoken his inquiry through the port-hole.

Shackled to a policeman, Guy shook his head and smiled his refusal to step up to the port-hole while the jurors examined the after cabin. Instead, he led them to a little used forward hatch where the defense insists the slayer hid to ambush his victim.

LOUDERBACK VOTE WILL COME MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(UP)—The house judiciary committee today agreed to vote next Monday upon the case of Federal Judge Louderback of San Francisco, whose official conduct is now under investigation.

The committee met today in extended executive session, but failed to reach an agreement. "There was absolutely no decision reached," Chairman Sumners said. "However, we will meet again Monday and vote on the case."

Rep. F. H. La Guardia, Rep. N. Y., who introduced the original resolution to investigate Louderback, said he believed two possible alternatives were open to the committee under house rules: "Recommendation of impeachment" or "exoneration."

WAR DEPARTMENT AWARDS CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(UP)—The war department today awarded army post building contracts totaling $178,188.50, including a $37,597 award to Frank J. Reilly of San Francisco for construction of non-commissioned officers' quarters at Hamilton field, Calif.

Work on this contract must be completed within 240 days. Other contracts were: To H. G. Klusman, Cucamonga, Calif., for bakery and laundry at March field, Calif., to be completed in 120 days, $53,379.50; to Meyer Brothers, San Francisco, for additional headquarters building at the Presidio, San Francisco, to be completed in 240 days, $23,742.

Time Extended To Renew License Plates

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—A 10-day "moratorium" on automobile license renewals was in effect today.

The period after which the registration fee would be doubled was to have ended today, according to Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles.

But after a conference with Governor Rolph, he said, it was decided to extend the time until February 14, "in view of economic conditions and general financial distress."

After that date the double fee will be in effect.

KING CAROL IN DECREE ORDERS MARTIAL LAW

Offices of Subsidiary of Standard Oil Company Wrecked by Mob

BUCHAREST, Feb. 4.—(UP)—King Carol signed decrees today establishing a military state of emergency, tantamount to martial law, in Bucharest and the oil district of Ploesti, where a mob wrecked offices of a subsidiary of the Standard Oil of New Jersey three days ago.

The king summoned a cabinet meeting immediately to discuss extending the state of emergency throughout the country. Bucharest and environs were quiet.

Widespread labor unrest was responsible for the decrees. Troops were ready to go to Ploesti, center of the important Rumanian oil refining industry. Workers invaded the offices, wrecked furniture and attempted to destroy files and records.

Parliament met after a general strike of railroad shop workers at Jassy, Bessarabia. Strikers appealed to traffic workers to join them. The walkout threatened to cripple railroad service in Moldavia, one of the most important communications systems in the country.

The situation was aggravated by resignation of Pan Halippa, cabinet minister for the Bessarabia territory, which will be chiefly affected by the emergency decrees.

The parliamentary debate lasted until 2:30 a. m. today, after which the king was empowered to declare a state of emergency throughout the country if deemed necessary. Gendarmerie patrolled railway shops, oil refineries, and other likely trouble spots.

FOOD DROPPED FROM PLANE TO CREW MEN

GRASS VALLEY, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Trapped in the deep snow 40 miles east of here, a maintenance crew of 10 to 15 men today telephoned their thanks to an airplane pilot and helper who carried 400 pounds of provisions to the camp.

The crew is stationed at Bowman lake, at the base of the Bowman canyon dam. All roads leading to the place were blocked by heavy snowdrifts, and their food supplies were running low.

It would have required days to carry the supplies in by sled, so the company chose the airplane route. Two consignments of provisions, weighing 400 pounds, were dropped into the village from the plane by Dale Hunter, pilot, and Forrest E. Bennett, owner of the plane.

The aviators were the same persons who carried skis to Walter Campbell last year, when he was marooned in high Sierra cabin.

HITLER DECREE WILL CURTAIL GERMAN PRESS

One Communist Newspaper Under Suspension and Others Threatened

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—(UP)—A decree curtailing the freedom of the press was signed today by President Von Hindenburg. The decree was understood to include the same essential provisions as an edict issued when Franz Von Papen was chancellor, which was rescinded by Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher.

The new decree was expected to be published tonight. It followed action of the government of Adolf Hitler in suppressing the Communist organ Vorwaerts for three days on charges of "high treason and inciting to uprising."

The Communist newspaper Rote Fahne already was under suspension. The decree was expected to be applied chiefly to extremist publications. Formerly, newspapers criticizing the government or calculating to create political strife have been subject to suspension.

Nationalist quarters close to Dr. Alfred Hugenburg, new German food controller, reported that the government was contemplating a three to four months' total interval moratorium on agricultural debts to afford a stable basis for further farm relief.

The report appeared in the Nationalist newspaper Kreuz Zeitung, and was generally assumed to have emanated from the food controller's office. Official confirmation was lacking.

The total agricultural indebtedness is officially estimated at 11,000,000,000 marks, although private estimates are as high as 14,000,000,000 marks, or approximately $3,500,000,000.

Political interest shifted momentarily from the Reich to the Prussian Diet, which met to discuss a National motion demanding dissolution of the Diet and general elections March 5, when the new Reichstag will be elected.

PLAN POST MORTEM ON CALIFORNIA MAN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Despite protests of survivors, a post mortem on the body of James Carey Davis Jr., 35, is scheduled for February 15, Deputy Coroner Eugene Ingles said today.

Davis was found dying in his hotel room in Rogers park early yesterday. He had consumed 225 grains of a sedative and, according to physicians, had been drinking. He died soon after he attempted to call by telephone his first wife, Ruth Henderson.

After officials of the coroner's office agreed to waive a post mortem, the decision was altered when attorneys representing Davis' mother, who is in New Mexico, and his first wife, protested against a clause in a waiver absolving the coroner's office of responsibility in the case.

CHANGE PAYDAY FOR EMPLOYEES OF STATE

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Payday for California state employees will hereafter be the 15th instead of the first of each month, under an emergency act added to the statutes today following Governor Rolph's signature.

Other measures signed by the executive included the following: Appropriating $40,000 to provide facilities for registering state warrants, and concentrating in the state treasurer's office 108 funds now in various banks; appropriating $42,028 for printing sponsor pamphlets for November elections; appropriating $11,000 for printing the motor vehicle code authorized by the last legislature and legalizing bonds approved by cities and counties.

Milk War Is Responsible For Shooting

Defiance of Officials Who Attempt to Foreclose Is Continuing

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—The first bloodshed of farmers' present revolt against burdensome conditions intensified today as a rebellion that gradually spread from the Atlantic seaboard to the Rocky mountains.

Through the Corn Belt the situation was made more apprehensive by a milk price war. Three states were affected by the controversy as dairymen protested against low prices.

A South Dakota farmer and his two sons were wounded by gunfire when they attempted to run a gauntlet of other farmers blocking roads to markets. R. D. Markell, 67, a wealthy Union county, South Dakota, farmer, was seriously injured by rifle and shotgun slugs. His sons, Harry, 32, and Keate, 21, were less seriously hurt.

Markell and his sons were taking 1000 gallons of milk to Sioux City, Iowa. About two miles west of Sioux City, in South Dakota, nearly 70 farmers placed logs across the road, stopped the Markell truck and ordered them to turn back. They refused. During the argument that followed the shots were fired.

A third son, Frank, 22, was uninjured. Two other casualties were reported from Iowa. N. Cochran of Moline, Iowa, who was said to have participated in a picket line in the revolt, was shot in the head and torso. An unidentified man was treated at a doctor's office for similar injuries.

Wisconsin was the other state entangled in the milk price dispute. It also was reported that eastern Iowa farmers would be asked to join the strike.

Meanwhile defiance of officials attempting foreclosure sales on farms continued. Farmers in states as far west as Colorado, which heretofore has not been involved in the revolt, massed at forced sales to bid in property at penny prices and return it to the owner.

Farmers in several other states which have not previously been drawn into the disorder, including Indiana, New York and Missouri, threatened similar proceedings.

Tax sales, postponed in Iowa several times, again were delayed in several sections. Farmers attended in groups to prevent prospective bidders from participating.

ROLPH PROBE WILL REOPEN ON MONDAY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 4.—(UP)—Walter E. Garrison, former director of public works, will be recalled to the witness stand to testify before the senate investigating committee Monday, its attorney, Sheridan Downey, said today.

Members of the state highway commission and Earl Lee Kelly, present director, will also be asked to testify, in an attempt to show that politics has influenced the addition of roads to the state highway system, Downey indicated.

From roads, the committee will proceed to the bond investment program of Rolland A. Vandegraft, state director of finance, after which it will take up the lease of the San Francisco state annex building.

EINSTEIN AND WIFE AT PALM SPRINGS

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Feb. 4.—(UP)—Dr. Albert Einstein, German physicist, and his wife enjoyed the wide expanses of the desert today.

They motored to the resort from Pasadena. The physicist seeks a week's rest from his studies at California Institute of Technology.

SENATE GROUP WILL TAKE UP BARRY CHARGE

Sergeant at Arms Suspended Until Report Made By Investigators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(UP)—The Senate judiciary committee was summoned today to meet Monday to consider the case of Sergeant at Arms David S. Barry who charged in the magazine "The New Outlook," that some congressmen sell their votes for money.

The committee will consider the proposal that Barry, who has been suspended, shall be removed from office. It also will have before it the Walsh resolution to submit to the federal district attorneys of the District of Columbia and Southern New York the question whether libel action is warranted.

Senate lawyers are divided on the libel question. Some contend that since Barry mentioned no names in his signed article no libel action could be brought since no individual was libeled.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee today wrote Barry requesting that he be in the capital Monday to make any statement he may desire or to appear before the committee if it desires to hear evidence.

Public Hearing "I don't want any testimony behind closed doors in this case," Norris said today. "If any evidence is heard it will be heard in public."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, ferret of the oil scandals, quietly introduced the resolution which may detonate political dynamite. He asked that transcripts of the senate's inquiry of Barry be sent to the federal attorneys of the District of Columbia and the Southern district of New York. The resolution requests "appropriate action" by the New York prosecutor, in whose district the magazine is published.

Senate lawyers disagreed as to whether the article could have violated the libel laws. Some held there could be no libel because no individuals were named in the article.

The lines in Barry's article which stirred the senatorial tempest were: "Contrary perhaps, to the popular belief, there are not many crooks in congress, that is, out and out grafters, or those who are willing to be such; there are not many senators or representatives who sell their vote for money, and it is pretty well known who those few are."

CHICAGO BANKER TO JOIN BANK AMERICA

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Acceptance by Arthur Reynolds of a position as vice-chairman executive of the Bank of America National Trust & Savings association with headquarters in San Francisco stirred financial circles today.

Reynolds, ex-chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company, said in announcing his acceptance that he had been "loafing" too long and was anxious to get back to work. He left the Continental Illinois seven months ago.

"I've been in business too long and have been active too long to quit now," he said. "I am going to San Francisco to help develop it into a still greater money center just as I have done in Chicago."

MINING PROFESSOR AT STANFORD DEAD

PALO ALTO, Calif., Feb. 4.—(UP)—Theodore S. Dunn, 50, associate professor of mining engineering at Stanford University, was struck and instantly killed on the campus last night by an automobile driven by Eunice Force, 30, junior student from San Diego.

Miss Force, daughter of a wealthy tractor company executive and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, told police she was blinded by the lights of a bus from which Force had just alighted. She was not arrested.

Dunn was a graduate of Missouri School of Mines and captain in the army engineers during the World War. He came to Stanford in 1930. He is survived by his widow.

JULIAN JUMPS BOND: BELIEVED NOW IN CANADA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Another chapter was written today into the tangled history of C. C. Julian, colorful Oklahoma and California oil promoter, with receipt of a letter indicating he would jump a $25,000 bond in a mail fraud case.

Julian, who has made and lost half a dozen fortunes in his spectacular career, is charged with using the mails to fleece hundreds of investors in connection with promotion of a $3,000,000 oil company. His trial was scheduled to be held here February 6.

Frank Russell, president of the Russell Petroleum company, and one of Julian's bondsmen, yesterday received a letter from Julian saying he would be "absent" when trial was called, and indicating that he probably would seek refuge in Canada.

In his letter, Julian charged that "they are all set to frame me into the penitentiary."

"In this case," he added, "I have come to the conclusion that discretion is the better part of valor."

Julian expressed his appreciation of favors Russell had done for him, including signing his bond, and told him that he would remit the amount defalcation of the bond would cost Russell.

"You will hear from me within the next few months, but from a long way off," the letter said.

The letter was dated from Vancouver, B. C., on January 28. Postmarks showed it was airmailed at Chicago February 2.

The Canada label led officials to believe Julian probably planned to seek refuge there. They said the extradition treaty between Canada and the United States did not mention mail fraud and that he probably would be safe there.

Herbert K. Hyde, United States district attorney, at once ordered a nation-wide hunt for the oil man. He said he believed it possible that Julian might have mailed the letter from Chicago himself, and might not yet have returned across the Canadian line.

NIGHT RAID TRIAL TO RESUME MONDAY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—(UP)—A defense that they were victims of mistaken identity will be offered in court Monday when trial of 15 men accused of conspiracy to commit assault in a purported Ku Klux Klan raid, is resumed.

The defense indicated its hand yesterday when six of the defendants testified they were only spectators when police arrested them the night raiders invaded the home of David Milder, Long Beach barber, and attacked him and several of his friends. A. F. Tyler, Long Beach laundryman, and the other witnesses said they had been attracted to the scene by the disturbance.

DORIS KRESGE WEDS PRINCE OF PERSIA

PARIS, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, divorced wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, founder of the Kresge chain stores in the United States, was married here January 30 to Prince Farid Kiam Sadr of Persia. It was revealed today.

AMENDMENT TO MEASURE VOTED DOWN

Bill Defeated 172 to 37 Would Have Slashed Pay of Senators to $7500

SECOND BILL KILLED

Similar Measure Designed to Cut Pay of Representatives is Tabled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(UP)—The house today overwhelmingly refused to approve a policy of further congressional paycuts.

By a vote of 172 to 37 it rejected the Whittington amendment to the legislative appropriations bill, which would have reduced senatorial salaries to $7500 annually.

Whittington had intended to offer a similar amendment to the section of the bill dealing with pay of representatives. However, the failure to pass the first proposal was accepted as meaning the quick defeat of similar amendments.

Representative J. R. Mitchell, Democrat, Tennessee, author of the pending anti-nepotism bill, said he intended to offer his measure as an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill. He would forbid any senator or congressman to employ a relative or the relative of another member.

Several previous attempts have been made to deal with nepotism but with no results. A year ago a measure in this direction by Representative Mouser, Republican, Ohio, was voted down two to one.

Members have generally sought to avoid debate on the subject, though finally the house without debate voted to open the payrolls to public inspection. Nepotism has never been allowed to come up in senate debate at all.

The house appropriations subcommittee has moved to curtail excessive congressional funerals. It recommends restricting funeral decorations to four. The government paid for 60 roundtrip fares to Cincinnati for the funeral of the

RHEBA SPIVALO TO SPEAK AT TEMPLE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—(UP)—If Rheba Crawford Spivalo, director of the state department of social welfare, is being groomed to take over the duties of Almee Semple McPherson-Hutton as pastor of Angelus temple, David Hutton, husband of the noted evangelist, is unaware of it, he said today.

"Mrs. Spivalo will preach from Angelus temple pulpit on Sunday, February 12, and will give an address on commissary night, February 14, but no significance is attached to these two appearances," Hutton said.

Rumors of the change in Angelus temple pastorate originated in San Francisco, where they were given credence by an act now before the legislature to abolish Mrs. Spivalo's state post.

Mrs. Spivalo was known as "the angel of Broadway" when she was a Salvation Army captain in New York.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 4.—To the Editor of The Register: The League of Nations don't know whether to kick Japan out or Japan don't know whether to kick the League out. They are both equally disgusted with each other. The League as conceived is a wonderful idea and it works on small nations, but the minute a big one wants to "gobble up" something, then they say the League is interfering. Japan wants a "Monroe Doctrine" now with them playing the part of Monroe, doctering on China. Not only "doctering" but operating. Yours, WILL ROGERS

NEW WEATHER SERVICE TO BE GIVEN GROWERS

SENATE GROUP WILL TAKE UP BARRY CHARGE

Installation of a new type of weather forecasting service for citrus growers, sprayers and fumigators in five southern California counties, including Orange county, is looming today following a conference of growers in Los Angeles yesterday, with Agricultural Commissioner H. J. Ryan.

According to A. A. Brock, agricultural commissioner for Orange county who attended the conference, the information will relate principally to desert winds and will be for the benefit of sprayers and fumigators. Brock said this morning that considerable loss is experienced in fumigating groves because the fumigators are unable to look ahead at weather conditions. In many cases he said fumigators have started work on a grove only to have a wind start that results in the burning of many trees. Brock said Floyd Young, government meteorologist at Pomona, can forecast the desert winds two days in advance. This information according to Brock will, if the plan is completed, be relayed to the California Citrus Exchange in Los Angeles and from there will be relayed by ticker to offices of the Exchange in the various citrus communities. The Exchange maintains offices in Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton for Orange county. This service also will be available to ranchers to aid them in determining irrigation dates.

Barry said he had no proof that some sell their votes. But he said he believed his accusation was not false, although a matter of opinion.

Has No Proof

Under a cross fire of questions Barry said he had no proof that some sell their votes. But he said he believed his accusation was not false, although a matter of opinion.

By a vote of 40 to 31 the senate refused summarily to discharge Barry. On that moral issue the senate divided almost exactly on political lines. Three Republicans—Brookhart, Norris and Nye—voted with the Democrats to discharge Barry. Six Democrats voted with the Republicans against summary dismissal. They were Ashurst, Copeland, Glass, Hayden, Lewis and Tydings.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, demanded that the judiciary committee subpoena ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith, editor of the magazine, and other witnesses.

"The senate should go into the matter thoroughly and determine whether there are members who take bribes," he said.

The senate proceedings merged at times on the ludicrous before it finally was decided that action should be postponed.

"Let's give the sergeant at arms the croix de guerre and the medal of honor and retire him on full pay after March 4," suggested Senator Gore, Democrat, Oklahoma, recalling that as a Republican appointee Barry is through March 4 regardless of decision in the present case.

"Let him have counsel," pleaded Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana. "You don't try a man without counsel."

"Plenty of people are going off the payroll March 4 without benefit of counsel," said Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, with a malicious grin at lame duck colleagues.

Judge Allen granted Mrs. Edith Ewing a decree of divorce from George Ewing on her allegations of cruelty. According to Mrs. Ewing her husband started a course of cruelty toward her shortly after their marriage, May 5, 1921, when he cursed her. "Her husband also was accused of becoming angered at her and threatening to send her to the asylum."

There were only two divorces granted yesterday in superior court. One case was heard before Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel and the other decree was granted by Judge James L. Allen.

Judge Scovel granted Mrs. Cecile Engel a divorce from Edward C. Engel on grounds of desertion and non-support.

WASHINGTON

HULL

Mr. Roosevelt personally started the Hull boom for Secretary of State. It nearly brought him to a break with his best known public advisers.

It also brought to light an inside story of Senator Hull's connections in the last campaign which was not even suspected by Mr. Roosevelt's closest friends. Those two were seldom seen together. Yet they appear to have done twice as much private conferring since the pre-convention campaign as any of the other more public figures around Mr. Roosevelt. They did it all by long distance telephone.

One day Mr. Roosevelt called Senator Hull six times.

This clandestine comradeship started at the Jackson Day dinner here last year. Hull caught Mr. Roosevelt's eye by leaping into the fray against the Raskob-Smith steamroller. After that Mr. Roosevelt took few political steps toward the Presidency without consulting the modest Senator from Tennessee.

The mere fact that Hull kept all this secret for so long is sufficient evidence of his integrity. Apparently Mr. Roosevelt is picking his cabinet on a personal integrity basis. Hull fits snugly in that picture with Senators Glass and Walsh.

From a political standpoint the Hull appointment would be a dud. Mr. Roosevelt has been forcefully informed of that fact by most of those around him. That is the situation which undoubtedly prompted Mr. Roosevelt to say in the presence of Farley, Flynn and Frank Walker:

"I want to say in their presence that I will not discuss the Cabinet with them. That is peculiarly my own official function."

There is another precedent shattered.

Senator Hull has made a study of international trade and trade barriers for some years. He probably knows more about them than anyone else. His advice would be priceless in the forthcoming war debt dealings.

He has difficulty in expressing himself forcefully. His phrases are lumbering and sometimes incoherent. That has been his chief trouble in the Senate. It is the reason why he has not assumed a more prominent place there.

PROGRESSIVES

There is a gathering momentum in Congress against further governmental meddling of large businesses.

The old feeling that an emergency existed which warranted steps in state socialism is slowly being dissipated. Hearings are being held daily in both Houses for the purpose of producing evidence against paternalism through the R. F. C. That is what is behind the hearings on the five-day week and the Couzens railroad resolution.

The progressives apparently see a glimmer of hope for drives they long have been conducting in vain. One of that group in the Senate has been trying to show United States Steel dominates the price of steel rails. A protest from him and from the I. C. has been on the desk of the Attorney General for two years.

The Senator frequently sees Attorney General Mitchell on the golf course. He always asks: "How about that steel report?" Mitchell always replies: "I'm still investigating it." The last time the Senator saw Mitchell on the golf course he called out:

"Never mind about that steel report. Tom Walsh is taking over your job soon. He will know what to do about it."

LABOR

Hard campaigning is going on backstage over the labor portfolio. Friends of Mr. Tobin of the A. F. of L. are very active. They got the heads of various unions to endorse him. The General Federation Board declined to do so. It took the attitude that it was not in politics. Most A. F. of L. leaders are for him. President Green pressed Tobin's cause personally before Mr. Roosevelt when the President-elect was here. He took Matthew Woll along as a witness. That is advisable in these days.

All Mr. Roosevelt would say was that he would not forget labor.

The little birds say Mr. Roosevelt is not pleased at the way some of the labor leaders are acting. Tobin campaigned ardently for him but the A. F. of L. followed its time-honored custom of trying to keep neutral. Most of the officials voted Democratic.

Mr. Roosevelt's displeasure is what is behind recent inspired stories from Warm Springs that Frances Perkins may get the post.

OUTLOOK

Statistics for January may not be so encouraging as recently reported here. During the last week of that month automobiles, textiles and anthracite coal slipped a few notches. Until that happened it was considered probable that the industrial activity would be about the same as December.

Now the prospects are it will be off some two points. Final figures will come in about two weeks.

These expectations are not as discouraging as they sound. They mean only that the January seasonal improvement failed to measure up to the standards of recent years. No major trend can be developed until we see what February brings. The prospects are fairly good.

KINGFISH

They swear this one is true about Huey Long calling on Mr. Roosevelt from the Capitol in Washington. He got the butler on the telephone.

"This is the Kingfish," said Huey.

"Sorry, but we are not needing any fish today," the butler—believe it or not—replied, and hung up.

Huey raised his own particular brand of Hades until he finally succeeded in getting Mr. Roosevelt.

NOTES

The bankers think the Glass appointment to the Treasury would assure sound money and a balanced budget. . . . Yet Senator Glass was the author of the Glass-Bohr amendment authorizing a conservative issue of new currency by national banks. . . . The appointment of Walsh, Glass and Hull would strip the leadership of the Senate rather bare. . . . The private comments of Senators all along the line are that those three could do Mr. Roosevelt more good in the Senate than in the cabinet.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

CABINET

That Senator Cordell Hull is slated to be head of the State Department clicks here. New York would interpret such an appointment as evidence that Roosevelt intends to be his own Secretary of State. Hull is rated as a conscientious worker, a skilled political diplomat with few enemies, and above all as a loyal Rooseveltian. He is considered a tariff expert, but is not understood to know much about foreign affairs otherwise.

The impression here is that no one is going to be a deputy president. The financial district figures that the country is going to be run like a first class corporation with one responsible chief and subordinates who will accept decisions instead of developing policies of their own.

New York friends close to the President-elect are enjoying the pastime of spearing—quite privately—the daily shoals of rumors. They regard the drafting of Owen Young as a particularly dead fish.

The idea that Frances Perkins can be displaced by labor agitation is another.

So is the tale that Wallace of Iowa will not get Agriculture. William H. Woodin as a possibility for the Treasury is pressed hard by the belief that Commerce is more probable.

Senator Cutting's reported boosting of LaFollette for the cabinet is smiled away as love's labor lost.

That the attorney general's seat—if accepted—will lead Senator Walsh to the supreme court—his heart's desire—is agreed by his friends to be improbable. Younger men are more likely to be called to those chairs.

But if anything is certain it is that Baruch, Polk and Col. House will not be in the cabinet. The latter would not accept and the former are not considered likely choices. Though political leaders seem sincerely regretful that Col. House is determined to hold no office, they respect his steadfast co-steadfastness.

EMBASSIES

Friends of Judge Bingham of Louisville do not believe the Paris post would interest him. London is a different matter. There is reason to believe it will be offered. Newton D. Baker is said to have been seriously considered in this connection but is understood to be reluctant to give up his increasingly lucrative legal practice.

Norman Davis in an important capacity is certain—but not as ambassador to London.

Informed circles dismiss the current rumors that attach to the Berlin selection. Untermyer, Robert Bayard Swope appear equally unlikely to be picked.

R. F. C.

Bankers and utility people are just as interested in R. F. C. appointments as the cabinet. Nominees to replace Pomerene, Miller and Mills will give a valuable clue to future R. F. C. policies. A shift from savings banks and railroads to self-liquidating construction loans would make a lot of difference to the big fellows. If William Woodin gets Pomerene's job there will be a heartfelt sigh of relief.

MUSCLE SHOALS

F. C. policy will have a lot to do with Muscle Shoals development. If the government really intends to operate Muscle Shoals as a commercial proposition it will either have to build additional steam or hydro-electric plants to maintain the load when the Tennessee river is low—or arrange to buy the needed power reserve elsewhere. Also it would have to create distribution facilities unless it was willing to hand them over to existing private corporations.

Utility leaders are watching for signs of R. F. C. loans preferred to such cities as Birmingham and Memphis to enable them to build distributing plants of their own which could handle Muscle Shoals power. This would come under the head of self-liquidating construction projects—as would additional generating plants. If this happens the Morgan-controlled Commonwealth & Southern is in for the battle of its life.

Nothing is likely to happen until after March 4th so the interested utilities are watchfully waiting. They still hope—but do not really believe—that the threat of government operation is a bluff. Some quiet research is being done in preparation for a possible lease offer.

GAS TAX PLAN OF LEAGUE IS ADOPTED HERE

tem was financed and of the origin of the gas tax funds.

He discussed the auto club plan, which is to add 6624 miles of roads to the state highway system, which must be designated in cooperation with local authorities. He said the plan would provide a substantial amount from the state for the upkeep of roads through cities, and that that would relieve cities from that particular burden.

"There is no question but that cities have a right to participate in the gas tax revenues," he said, "because 75 per cent of the revenues originate in the cities. However, this does not mean that cities should get all the benefit because of the amount of travel over rural roads. Cities in a large measure have been responsible and promoted the rural road system."

The auto club plan was objected to by several present at the meeting, because they said it would afford no relief to those who are paying for bonds beyond reason and because there is no definite division of the roads to be added announced.

Allen Davis, attorney for the auto club and lobbyist at Sacramento, spoke in support of the auto club plan. He declared it was the only plan which would meet with the approval of northern and southern legislators, and that the plan would bring about an equalization of secondary roads in the state because the northern part of the state now has 800 miles more of roads than Southern California. He said he doubted that a plan for direct allocation of cities could be put through the legislature.

William J. Fox, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Regional Commission, presented the Southern Counties plan, which provides that counties shall receive one and a half cents of each three-cent tax collected by the state instead of the one cent at the present time. Under the plan, the tax would be returned to the county in proportion to the total automobile registration at the present time. The determination of a designated county road system continued through both incorporated and unincorporated territory would be made by the board of supervisors in cooperation with city councils, after proper hearings.

Fox said main thoroughfares should be constructed and maintained by funds obtained from motorists, but that he didn't see how the state could make contributions where the frontage would be relieved of maintenance.

"Supervisors feel that money from gas taxes should be returned to the counties," he said, "but spent on city streets as traffic justifies. Cities feel that supervisors might not be fair, as many have not been in the past. All agree that cities should have more of the funds which are not now needed for the primary highway system. Our bill is designed to force an agreement between cities and supervisors."

Voiced objections to the plan outlined by Fox were that too much was left to the discretionary powers of the supervisors.

Fox declared that the whole-sale addition of roads to the state system, as suggested in the auto club plan, would be a mistake at the present time.

J. L. McBride, Santa Ana city councilman who is a member of the League of Municipalities gas tax committee, presented figures and facts to show that cities have not been fairly treated in the past and that they are entitled to aid.

"We all agree," he said, "that cities need help and that they have borne more than their share of the expense. This is the difference between the league plan and other plans. If the league plan goes over, I can tell you exactly what every city will receive, not what someone else is going to try to do for us."

"As far as leaving anything up to the board of supervisors, they haven't done anything for the cities of Orange county in the past. With the league plan, taxes which don't need any maintenance except sweeping and water would take a year or two to find out what we are going to get."

In commenting on the proposal for the state to take over certain streets, McBride said that Main street has an eight-inch concrete surface which doesn't need any maintaining except sweeping and water. If the state would take on that job, "We'll take the Southern Counties plan before the auto club plan," he declared.

"We have to judge from past experience. Last year we held meetings with the board of supervisors and tried to get together with them. Supervisors tried to prevent us from getting together and from holding meetings. One supervisor told an Orange county city mayor that if he would not attend our meetings he would see his city was taken care of."

"Orange county has appropriated money for streets to help self-subsidized land. I know what I'm talking about because I am one of the stockholders in a subdivision where such a deal took place. That's why we want a direct allocation. If our bill goes through we can get the benefit in tax bills in July. If we wait for the supervisors to give it to us we can't."

Willard Smith, supervisor from the Orange district, declared he was in sympathy with the program and said "The cities have not been receiving a fair distribution of the gas tax funds."

SANTA ANA MAN FOUND GUILTY IN CRASH CASE

Jack Schultz, 21, Santa Ana youth charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Emma Harrington, San Diego, near Oceanside, on August 7 of last year, in an automobile crash, has been found guilty and will be sentenced by a San Diego court Monday morning.

Schultz was the driver of a car which collided head on with a machine operated by H. E. Harrington, of 5046 Sixty-seventh street, San Diego. Mrs. Harrington, a passenger, was killed instantly and two children in the car, Mary Louise and Herbert Harrington, were seriously cut and bruised, as was Mr. Harrington.

In the Schultz case was Bruce Vegely, son of City Clerk Ed Vegely; Frances Parke of West Fifth street, Santa Ana, and Doris Goff of Laguna Beach.

STEWART IS NEW CHAPLAIN OF V. F. W.

Martin V. Stewart was elected chaplain to succeed William E. Armstrong, who resigned, at the regular meeting of Ernest Kellogg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held last night in the K. of P. hall.

Charles E. Camm, senior vice commander, was appointed head of the committee in charge of "buddy" poppy sales which will be held the last week in May.

A short ritualistic service was held commemorating the sinking of the Maine.

The auxiliary made plans for a membership contest. On February 23 the local auxiliary will meet with the Fullerton auxiliary when Department President Mrs. Ada Blesh of San Jose makes an official visit.

FAMILY GATHERINGS TO FEATURE SERVICE

Beginning tomorrow evening, at the First Baptist church, the Family Hour will be held each Sunday from 7 to 8 o'clock. To help furnish the home atmosphere, the pulpit furniture will be removed and in its place will be put some furnishings which give the air of the home living room. As in the by-gone days, the family gathered about the musical instrument to sing, the congregation will gather around the organ and piano to sing the old songs of the church and to hear special numbers and appropriate readings.

The minister will give a 15-minute talk this Sunday on a subject appropriate to the home life. "Shall We Repeat the Seventh Commandment and Lower the High Standards Between the Sexes?"

Entire family groups are especially invited to attend these Family Hour meetings, which will be dismissed early enough for the children to get home at a reasonable time.

COWBOY EVANGELIST ATTRACTS CROWDS

The Kellogg evangelistic campaign now in progress at the Santa Ana Four Square Gospel Tabernacle is attracting large crowds from all over Orange county. Last night Evangelist J. C. Kellogg, who appears every night in cowboy dress, delivered a timely message on "The Tribulation Period and the Thousand Years of Peace."

Tomorrow morning he will preach on the subject "How To Put the Word of God in Full Action." In the afternoon he will lecture on "The Seven Words That Smashed the League of Nations." The evening subject at 7:30 o'clock is "The Final and Last Judgment." His campaign will close February 12.

Grocer Victim Of 2 Armed Bandits

Two young bandits, one armed with a pistol, the other with a lead pipe, held up O. P. Jones, at his grocery store at 401 East Chestnut street at 6:50 o'clock last night, escaping with $10 in cash which one of them took from the cash register.

Good descriptions of the men were given police. Both were young, about 23 and 25 years of age, the man with the pipe wearing blue overalls, blue sweater and a cap. The pistol armed bandit wore no hat, no coat and had on light colored trousers.

CHARGE TWO WITH DRUNKEN DRIVING

Two persons were arrested late yesterday afternoon at different times by D. D. Adams, member of the California Highway Patrol. Both were lodged in the county jail, charged with operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor.

Robert P. McClelland, 42, cowboy from the Dude ranch at Laguna Beach told jailers when he was booked that he could handle a horse, but that an automobile was different.

The other man arrested was Angel Pimental, 27, laborer of Huntington Beach.

FILE ACTION ASKING $5259 FOR INJURIES

Charging negligence in failing to place barriers around excavations, Miss Kathryn Dunham, through her mother Mrs. Vida Dunham, is suing Kovacovich and Price, Incorporated, contractors that graded and widened Santa Ana streets at the intersection of North Main and Seventeenth streets, for damages totalling $5259.84.

In her complaint filed in superior court Miss Dunham alleges that she was injured when her car struck the excavation at Seventeenth and Main on the night of February 5, 1932.

According to her complaint, on the day of the accident the west half of North Main street, near the intersection of Seventeenth street was lowered two feet below the surface level of the traveled portion of the highway. Because of this lowering of the elevation it was impossible to cross the intersection with a motor vehicle, she alleges.

She alleged that the excavation was not properly guarded by barriers and because of this negligence she drove her automobile into the excavation. Miss Dunham was thrown against the steering post of the car receiving cuts and bruises in addition to several teeth that were knocked out. She is asking for $5000 damages and $529.84 special damages.

GETS PROBATION IN FORGED CHECK CASE

Frank Arsenia who recently pleaded guilty to forging the endorsement of Guisto Tapparo and Mrs. Caroline Tapparo to an insurance check for $2013.18 and cashing it, appeared before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday and was granted probation for three years, provided he repay the Tapparos their share of the check.

The check was paid by the Northwestern Insurance company of Milwaukee to Arsenia as insurance following a fire in Los Angeles. The check was made out jointly to the Tapparos and Arsenia, as the Tapparos held a $1500 mortgage on the property burned.

Arsenia pleaded guilty to forging signatures of the two Tapparos and cashing the check at the Santa Ana branch of the Bank of America.

Un Jung Hung, recently found guilty of violation of the State Marketing Act was denied probation by Judge Scovel and ordered to appear in court next Tuesday for pronouncement of judgment.

CAPT. W. THOMPSON JOINS ARMY STAFF

A new member of the Santa Ana Salvation Army staff had joined the force of workers in the city today when Capt. W. Thompson took up her duties, it was announced today by Major F. Schute, who was recently placed in charge of activities here.

The captain's work will be mainly among the young people of the city, consisting of visitation work and handling of War Crys. She has just been transferred from Pomona, where she has been carrying on the same kind of work.

Captain Thompson will have a welcome meeting to the local corps tonight at 8 o'clock at the Army Citadel, 214 North Sycamore street.

late Speaker Longworth at a cost of more than $6000.

Caskets which have cost as much as $7500 are now being limited by house authorities to $400 and flowers to $35.

House officials have revealed that they are under heavy pressure to allow relatives to travel at government expense on funeral trains of deceased members.

The house committee out in half the amount recommended for the botanic garden which operates as an adjunct of congress.

But out of the $113,725 still allowed for this congressional greenhouse, wives of senators and congressmen will be able to get all of the free cut flowers they wish for their teas and bridge parties.

The department of agriculture greenhouses furnish free roses, orchids and other cut flowers for wives of cabinet officials, and for White House functions. When the daughter of a defeated senator was married, just before his term expired, his apartment was decorated by the botanic garden and potted palms were banded from the elevator to the apartment entrance in profusion which transformed the bare hall into the semblance of a tropical paradise.

Many members are under such pressure of criticism and such demand for jobs from the unemployed that sentiment is growing for making a show of some self-sacrifice.

Sky Pilot to Talk On Depression End

The Rev. J. C. Mulcahy, known to cowboys and miners of the West as "Cowboy Jack" and the "Sky Pilot of the Range Country," gives indication of joining Henry Ford and other economic prophets in a prediction regarding the return of prosperity in a sermon titled "When Will This Depression End?" which he will deliver at the Salvation Army hall Saturday night.

The Rev. Mr. Mulcahy, procured by Major F. Schute, head of the local Salvation Army, will give a public lecture at 8 p. m.

Saturday's speaker has acquired a reputation for versatility during a period of 40 years spent on the range country. A composer of over 100 cowboy songs, poems and recitations, the Rev. Mr. Mulcahy is known as cowboy-poet-evangelist.

TWO WIVES GRANTED DIVORCES FRIDAY

There were only two divorces granted yesterday in superior court. One case was heard before Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel and the other decree was granted by Judge James L. Allen.

Judge Scovel granted Mrs. Cecile Engel a divorce from Edward C. Engel on grounds of desertion and non-support.

Judge Allen granted Mrs. Edith Ewing a decree of divorce from George Ewing on her allegations of cruelty. According to Mrs. Ewing her husband started a course of cruelty toward her shortly after their marriage, May 5, 1921, when he cursed her. "Her husband also was accused of becoming angered at her and threatening to send her to the asylum."

POLICE OFFICER EXTINGUISHES FIRE

Fire which started in the Tower Machine shop at First and Main streets at 6:30 o'clock last night had gained but little headway when it was discovered by A. L. Steward, sergeant of police.

The flames were extinguished with small loss, the officer putting out the fire with a garden hose. A hole two feet square had been burned in the floor at the rear of the plant. The fire started from a hot iron used as a cutting torch earlier in the day.

MASONS ENJOY PLAY BY PEACE OFFICERS

More than 600 Santa Ana Masons and members of their families saw "A Murder of Little Importance," a production staged by members of the Los Angeles sheriff's department members, in Masonic temple Thursday night.

The play, which was enthusiastically received, was designed to correct popular impressions as the methods used by scientific law-enforcement groups in dealing with murderers and crime of all kinds.

Court Notes

Charged with being drunk, D. W. Pemberton and Clement Price, both of Garden Grove, were fined $25 each in the Anaheim justice court yesterday. They were arrested by sheriff's officers Thursday afternoon.

RECOVER GAS FULLERTON TO BE HOST FOR TRUCK TAKEN BY BANDITS BAPTIST SCHOOL

Drained of its cargo of 6000 gallons of gasoline, worth at wholesale prices $600, the big truck and trailer owned by A. M. Engbergson, Long Beach independent driver, which was taken from him by two armed men early yesterday morning near El Toro, was recovered yesterday afternoon.

The truck was found abandoned on a quiet Compton street. It had not been damaged. The thieves were content to take its gas cargo, and although the truck cost $16,000 new, apparently no effort was made to keep it. The license numbers had not been changed.

At the same time, the Los Angeles police announced its recovery, they also announced they were holding two suspects in jail, one a man, the other a woman. Neither are believed to have been at the scene of the holdup at the time, but a telephone call traced to their home by Undersheriff C. W. Riggie, of the local sheriff's office, came from one of the bandits, officers said.

Los Angeles police expect to make more arrests in the case sometime today. Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean was in Los Angeles today on the case.

AUTHORITIES GET REPORTS ON BURGLARIES

Two Santa Ana homes were entered yesterday by burglars, but little loot was taken in either place.

Sometime yesterday while members of the family were away from home, a burglar entered the house of Lynn Hodges, of 209 Roe drive, through the back door, after using a pass key. Several old coins worth $5 and a number of pennies were taken. The entire house was ransacked, the thief apparently taking his time inside the house.

John F. Dohner, of 1312 South Sycamore street, came home with his family last night at 10:30 o'clock and frightened away a burglar which had entered the house through a rear window. Nothing was taken. The same thief broke into the garage and ransacked a trunk, but took nothing of value.

Three hundred pounds of copper wiring, worth $25 was stolen from the Southern California Telephone company's stock yard at Fruit and Brown streets last night, police were told.

Ben Slavin, of 409 East Bishop street, reported to police that a thief jacked his car up last night and took all four wheels and then took the spare tire too.

AUTOS COLLIDE AT BLIND INTERSECTION

Two persons were injured at 3 p. m. yesterday when cars collided at a blind intersection two miles south of Anaheim on the Katella road.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Pederson of 314 South Helena street, Anaheim, suffered cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding, driven by Pederson, collided with a machine operated by J. R. Lusk, 27, of 107 North Lemon street, Anaheim.

Report of the accident was filed with the California Highway Patrol.

PERMITS GRANTED FOR 2 NEW HOMES

Permits for the erection of two new homes in Santa Ana have been issued by the building inspector, calling for an expenditure here of $7500.

J. M. Morall, of Long Beach, took out a building permit for the erection of a frame and stucco home at 411 Edgewood avenue, in the north end of the city. It will cost $3000.

The other home will be built by E. C. Rogers, of 303 West Santa Clara avenue, at 2372 Riverside Drive and will cost in the neighborhood of $4500.

Name Committee On Legislation

V. J. Anderson, Santa Ana contractor, has been appointed chairman of the Orange County Builders Exchange legislative committee. It was announced today by Frederick Sanford, secretary of the Exchange.

The appointments, made by President A. L. Foster of Fullerton, included the following members of the legislative committee: O. N. Robertson, Allison Honer, N. E. Lentz and Harry C. Westover. George L. Vance of Fullerton was named on the Better Business committee.

TWO NIGHT FIRES CAUSE LOSS OF APPROXIMATELY $6500; TOWN THREATENED

Blazes in two localities in Orange county last night, fanned by the high winds, endangered the entire town of Stanton where a building was destroyed, and burned down another building west of Anaheim. The total loss is estimated around $6500.

Fire which is thought to have started in the motor controlling an electric refrigerator in Bob's cafe on Lincoln avenue near Grand avenue, west of Anaheim, completely destroyed the structure early this morning. The loss is estimated at between $4000 and $5000. The cafe was the property of Bob Davis of Anaheim.

The state fire department responded to the alarm given by one of the girls working in the cafe who discovered the fire at about 2 a. m. She stated that she had noticed that the refrigerator had been getting warm shortly before the flames broke out.

Owing to delay in getting the call to Joe Scherman, state fire warden at Orange, firemen responding were unable to subdue the flames but were able to keep the fire from spreading to the oil station across the road and other nearby structures, sparks having been blown 600 feet by the strong north wind. Ed Higgins of Orange accompanied Scherman. As no water was available, the state pumper was used.

Due to the high winds, the entire town of Stanton was menaced by fire last night, when flames destroyed the one-story pickle plant owned by Emil Harberger, of Los Angeles.

Members of the Garden Grove fire department under Chief E. J. Tobias and volunteers were handicapped because Stanton has no hydrants for fire fighting purposes and had to confine themselves to preventing the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Water carried on the Garden Grove truck and from small hydrants in yards and at business establishments was thrown on roofs of structures near the burning pickle factory.

The high winds carried the sparks for many miles but fortunately no buildings caught fire.

The loss was estimated at about $1500, most of the equipment having been moved out some time ago. A few barrels of pickles were destroyed. The plant was 40 by 80 feet and was located on the Pacific Electric line.

Origin of the fire has not been revealed.

PARENTS SHOULD TEACH CHILDREN RESPONSIBILITY

Ideals of the parent as they affect his attitude toward the child's behavior, was the first phase of growth conditions brought out by Dr. Regina Westcott-Wieman when she addressed the class in adult education yesterday morning at Frances Willard Junior High school.

"Ideals must never become the supreme guides because they are never perfectly right. We must treat ideals as searchlights by which we look over the field of life and not as guides. Ideals of any progressive person should change frequently," said Dr. Wieman.

In urging that children be provided with genuine experiences with real life situations she said that the children of today experience hardly any life except the artificial one that the adults stir up for them. It is her belief that guided behavior in real life situations is the only way to teach the child responsibility.

"It is the lack of general life experience that is the cause of lack of responsibility in our young people," she said. Dr. Wieman, in common with many other educators, feels that a family council at least once a week, when family experiences, plans, and budgets are discussed by the family group, is needed to bring a child up normally. In this way he is allowed his proper share of the family life.

Polo Teams To Clash Tomorrow

The four chukkers of polo, scheduled for last week between Fullerton Hillcrest and Norwalk riding club teams, but postponed because of the rain, will be played at 2 p. m., tomorrow on the field at the corner of Cypress and Orange avenues, according to announcement today by Guy Campbell, manager of Hillcrest stables and a member of the team. The public is invited. There is no charge for admittance.

BOY LOSES FINGERS IN SAW ACCIDENT

Harold Gardner, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gardner of Garden Grove, suffered the loss of three fingers on the right hand early today when his hand was caught in a buzz saw, while he was cutting wood at his father's place. The youth was rushed to the Orange county hospital for treatment, where it was said the second, third and fourth fingers on the right hand were severed.

NEW LINCOLNS MAN CHARGED DISPLAYED AT DUNTON AGENCY WITH TAKING SHOT AT WIFE

Display of the new 12-cylinder Lincoln motor cars which opened yesterday at George Dunton's, Lincoln dealer at 310 North Main street, attracted scores of visitors. Mr. Dunton stated today. A representative group of body types on the two V-12 chassis is being shown.

"The attendance at the display clearly indicates the unusual interest in Lincoln this year," said Mr. Dunton. "Not only the connoisseurs of fine cars to whom Lincoln always has appealed but also the owners of cars in lower price classes are visiting our showrooms to inspect the new cars. The latter are attracted especially by the new V-12-136 Lincoln, at the lowest price in Lincoln history, which for the first time makes available Lincoln quality and performance to the great army of motorists in the middle-price field."

Beyond the beauty of the new Lincoln bodies and the most attractive front end and grille, the visitors, he said, are evincing greatest interest in the mechanical features of the new chassis. One, a 125 horsepower V-12, 136-inch wheelbase chassis, is presented this year for the first time. The other, the 150 horsepower V-12, 145-inch wheelbase chassis, has mechanical refinements which mark it to be the finest Lincoln ever produced.

Mechanically, both chassis are typically Lincoln. Both V-12 engines are unusually alert, delivering their maximum power high in the speed range. Both are cushioned at four points in rubber. The cylinders of the 150 horsepower engine are set at an included angle of 45 degrees, those of the 125 horsepower engine at 87 degrees to provide non-synchronous flow of power.

Engines are fitted with dual downdraft carburetors, intake air silencers, fuel pumps and vacuum pumps. Correct temperature of the engine compartments is maintained by thermostatically-controlled radiator shutters, which, together with the two-toned horns sounding a musical beat note, are concealed back of the radiator grille.

The frame of each car is of the true X-type, with supporting tubular cross members. Being much more rigid in construction than those formerly employed, the frames materially relieve the bodies of road stresses and thus contribute to greater quietness.

The showing will continue through tomorrow.

HIGH HONORS PAID FARMER IN LAST RITES

Impressive military funeral services were held for J. C. Farrar, past commander of Calumet camp No. 26, United Spanish War Veterans, from the chapel of the James Wadsworth Veterans' hospital in Sawtelle yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the Santa Ana First Christian church, officiated at the services, assisted by the Rev. M. R. Drummond, of the hospital.

A full military band from the hospital accompanied the funeral cortege, marching from the chapel to the National cemetery, where interment was made. Colors of Calumet Auxiliary No. 39 followed the band.

Full ritualistic services were given at the graveside by Calumet camp, which consisted of a salute by the firing squad and a blowing of taps.

Representatives of many Orange county towns were present at the funeral services, to pay homage to the memory of the deceased veteran.

Palbearers were C. W. Winter, Sherman Glaze, W. W. Tantlinger, William Brown and Charles Kincaid.

'I'M GOOD FOR 20 YEARS YET'
SAYS VETERAN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran football coach of the University of Chicago, announced today that he signed a contract with the College of the Pacific, at Stockton, Calif.

Stagg, grand old man of football, is 70 years old, but as he launched a new career today he was filled with enthusiasm.

"I've finished my career at Chicago," he said, "and I'm starting a new one. I'm good for 20 years more and I have the enthusiasm, the ambition and the vitality to make them successful."

The change comes after Staggs spent 40 years at the University of Chicago. In his career here, he developed many strong teams, but in late years the fortunes of war have seemingly been against the sage of the game of football.

His retirement from Chicago is favor of Thomas A. Metcalf of Iowa State college was announced several months ago. Metcalf will be director of athletics at Chicago, but a football coach to step into Stagg's place has not been chosen.

At the College of the Pacific Stagg will be football coach but will not be director of athletics.

He did not make public the terms of his agreement with the Western college, either as to salary or as to the period over which the agreement will extend.

The agreement was consummated after a series of conferences between Stagg and Dr. I. C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific. The two men talked until late last night, but Stagg was up early this morning to make the announcement of his new employment.

The College of the Pacific is a member of the Far Western conference, and the school has an enrollment between 800 and 700, according to Stagg, who was pleased with his new connection.

W. H. Hinesworth, of Eugene, not as big as that when I came here 40 years ago," he said. "There was hardly a building on the campus and the enrollment was less than 500."

Citizens Drop Plans For Recalling Two Councilmen

ORANGE CLASS OF MEN HEARS BREA PASTOR

ORANGE, Feb. 4.—Men of the Christian church shared a banquet last night, members of the Loyal Men's class sponsoring the affair. Otis Ingle was in charge of the dinner and the devotions were conducted by M. E. Bivens, head of the church board.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. J. Wesley Runyan, of Brea, who spoke on "Christian Manhood." The Ventura trio of El Modena furnished a musical program and the Rev. Nicholas Davila, head of Mexican centers at Orange and El Modena spoke on "Men's Movement Among the Mexican Christians," and also gave a vocal solo.

D. G. Wetlin spoke on "Opportunities for Men to Study the Bible" and "The Big Brother Movement in the Church" was discussed by Walter Enoch, teacher of the Loyal Men's class.

BIBLE DISPLAY ARRANGED FOR ORANGE CHURCH

ORANGE, Feb. 4.—An interesting collection of Bibles is to be on exhibition at the First Christian church Sunday morning, according to an announcement made today by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Franklin H. Minck. Old Bibles, Bibles printed in another language other than English and Bibles with a special history are to be brought to the service.

One of the Bibles to be on exhibition has been read 31 times from the first page to the last by the same person.

In the evening, a pageant, "Beacon Lights of the Bible," will be given, under the direction of Mrs. Leon De Lanza. Miss Thelma Dugan, Mrs. C. A. McGill and Cecil Beriman will sing "Holy Bible, Book Divine."

"The Birth of the Church and Its Early History" will be the theme of the Wednesday night training class and prayer meeting.

On Tuesday the official board meeting of the church will be held in the log cabin.

Visitors To End Mennonite Church Services Sunday

ORANGE, Feb. 4.—Special services are to be continued tonight and Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock at Orange Mennonite church, where the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Overholt are conducting revival meetings.

The Rev. and Mrs. Overholt are members of the Nebraska conference of the Mennonite church and are to go to Harper, Kans., to conduct evangelistic meetings at the conclusion of their stay here. They have been guests of relatives in Whittier during the past week.

The Rev. J. S. Sorenson is pastor of the Orange church.

for LOVE or MONEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mona Moran, born on New York's East Side, marries John Barnett Townsend, millionaire. The strange marriage is arranged by Mona's employer, who tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her with the understanding that she learn the man's name and become his wife. She is to receive a large sum of money in actuality or secure a divorce.

Mona believes her bridegroom to be young Barry Townsend whom she loves. Not until just before the ceremony does she learn the man is Barry's uncle. Young Barry, who is not friendly with his uncle, has returned to South America where he and Steve Saccarelli are partners in a diamond mine. Believing young Barry lost to her, Mona goes through with the marriage. Lottie Carr, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend.

Six months pass. Only occasionally does Mona see her husband. He buys a huge diamond, called "The Empress of Peru," for her. Mona tries to soften her husband's attitude toward his nephew. He tells her that if she will agree that their marriage shall be permanent he will "do the right thing by Barry."

Townsend, who has been ill, dies suddenly on Christmas night. By the terms of the will Mona receives the bulk of his estate with the stipulation that she will lose it if she remarries. Barry feels Lottie Carr is entitled to a share of the fortune but there is no legal way for her to arrange this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXII

Mr. Garretson spoke amiably. "As far as Barry is concerned there is nothing to be done. It isn't necessary. I don't think he would accept any of his uncle's money even if you could offer it. The mine, you say, is a going concern. Suppose this young Saccarelli does own more than half of it? Let Barry wait. At 30 he can buy back his share. Or he can return and enter the family business. There is always a place waiting for him."

"I'll see if lunch cannot be hurried," Mona said suddenly. "I understand, Mr. Garretson. Please let's talk of other things."

A servant answered her ring and intimated that luncheon would be served immediately.

Mona and the lawyer sat facing each other across the shining mahogany table. The girl made a lovely picture in the high-backed chair against which her bronzed hair glowed. Black was becoming. Mr. Garretson noted with satisfaction that it was a well selected gown she was wearing.

He did not blame young Barry for anything except not marrying her immediately. The boy, forsaking the usual impetuosity of youth, had delayed. There had been cruel misunderstandings all around. Ah well, possibly youth in itself was recompense. Mr. Garretson sighed.

As he left the Townsend house and walked briskly toward Fifth avenue in the warm January sunshine, the lawyer said to himself, "She'll find some way to aid Barry!" He sighed for possibly the tenth time that day.

Left alone, Mona stood at the window and tapped the sill absently. She felt no keen loss as she would have had one and her husband seen more of one another. Only as she passed his suite on the way to her own did she realize that now she was mistress of this great house. It was hers alone.

In her sitting room she paused at the little French telephone, called Pilgrim's and asked for Lottie.

"Dine with me tonight?"

It was agreed without delay. Lottie had come to the telephone only a few moments before she was expected on the floor. She assured Mona that the rose taffeta she was wearing was a knockout.

"You ought to buy it, Min," Lottie insisted.

"All right, I'll buy it for you."

Smiling, Mona replaced the instrument. It was pleasant to think that any time she wished she could make such gifts. There were so many things she could do for those who had long been deprived, who had never known much happiness. Her own family. The neighbor over on Third avenue. Friends at the office. There were things she could do for everyone—except Barry!

Lottie arrived in a flurry of cold air, rosy cheeks and sweet-smelling furs. Mona had sent the car for her and Lottie was not without a sense of importance at the flutter she had caused among her coworkers as she entered the limousine.

"They probably think the chauffeur is my boy friend," she admitted. "There's just no unimpressed way to do it. You don't want to be impressed."

"How much money you making at Pilgrim's?" began Mona speculatively.

ANNEXATION OF W. C. T. U. HEAD 3-MILE BEACH SCHEDULED TO STRIP BACKED SPOOK APRIL 6

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 4.—Proposed annexation of a strip of beach land to the city is meeting with strong support here. The proposal was made by L. F. Keller, police chief and chairman of the civic affairs committee of the chamber of commerce. Keller suggests that the city annex the beach lands between the east limits of the city and the Santa Ana river, a distance of more than three miles.

The plans have been endorsed by the Orange county health department, Dr. K. H. Sutherland, head of the health department, stating that either something must be done that will insure care of the beaches, or it may be necessary to prevent the use of the beaches by the public.

On the beach between Huntington Beach and Sunset Beach, the land owners have fenced the beach and engaged an officer who is employed throughout the year in preventing the public from entering upon the beach. The entire beach of five miles between Huntington Beach and Sunset Beach is closed to the public. It is owned by the Bolsa Chica Gun club.

To prevent a similar beach closing east of the city, Chief Keller proposes to annex the land to the city limits and police it. He has named C. G. Ward as chairman of a committee of investigation to put over the annexation plan if it is feasible.

WESTMINSTER WINS

WESTMINSTER, Feb. 3.—The fifth and sixth grade girls' basketball team of Westminster won by a score of 13-12 Wednesday from the Fountain Valley girls. In another game that afternoon between seventh and eighth grade teams of the schools, Fountain Valley girls won by a score of 16-12.

HOME FROM FRESNO

YORBA LINDA, Feb. 4.—Miss Esther and Franklin Marshburn have returned from Fresno, where they went to see their sister, Mrs. Byron Deshier, who was ill. The Rev. Byron Deshier came to Yorba Linda with them, planning to attend the yearly meeting at Whittier, and is now ill at the home of his father-in-law, Dr. William Marshburn, with influenza. Mrs. Deshier is improved.

NEW BREA RESIDENTS

BREA, Feb. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. U. L. White and family are newcomers to Brea and are living at 280 Poplar street in the Yost and Culp property. They came here from Buena Park. Mr. White is a machinist, employed in this field by the Standard Oil company.

TRIBUTE PAID CHAMBER FOR PEACE EFFORT

FULLERTON, Feb. 4.—Fullerton citizens backing the recall of two of the Fullerton city councilmen, last night voted to reward their action in view of developments of the case. In so voting, tribute was paid the Fullerton Chamber of commerce for action taken in bringing about peace in the community.

Following a vote for rescinding action, made by A. B. Hillbold, and after talks by E. J. Menard and A. C. Whitefield, it was voted to form a new organization, to be called the Citizens' Protective league, to keep informed on civic and other affairs of government. The newly elected president, Whitefield, will name a committee and will call a meeting soon at which this committee will present the outline of organization.

At the meeting on recall, presided over by C. R. Allen, Harry Maxwell, who had headed the movement to petition councilmen to reinstate Judge Halsey L. Spence after three of them, Councilmen Bert Anlin, Tom Gowen and William Potter, had voted for declaring the office vacant, explained the work that had been done to accomplish this reinstatement during the past six weeks.

GALLANT SIR MADE CALIENTE FAVORITE

AGUA CALIENTE, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Norman Church's Gallant Sir appeared the favorite, at 21-2 to 1 odds, today in future books for the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap March 26.

Gallant Sir drew the top impost of 124 pounds with the withdrawal of his stablemate, Plucky Play who will be shipped to Havana for the Cuban Memorial, feature of the Havana meeting. Plucky Play had been the topweighted favorite at 128 pounds.

Pillow Flight, half-brother of the illustrious Phalar Lap, was far down the list of favorites, at 12 to 1. Economic and Poldoroso, 6 to 1, were next behind Gallant Sir.

HOME FROM FRESNO

YORBA LINDA, Feb. 4.—Miss Esther and Franklin Marshburn have returned from Fresno, where they went to see their sister, Mrs. Byron Deshier, who was ill. The Rev. Byron Deshier came to Yorba Linda with them, planning to attend the yearly meeting at Whittier, and is now ill at the home of his father-in-law, Dr. William Marshburn, with influenza. Mrs. Deshier is improved.

NEW BREA RESIDENTS

BREA, Feb. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. U. L. White and family are newcomers to Brea and are living at 280 Poplar street in the Yost and Culp property. They came here from Buena Park. Mr. White is a machinist, employed in this field by the Standard Oil company.

Mona shook her head. "Twilands isn't mine. John left Twilands to Elizabeth and Barry."

"He did!" Lottie said scornfully. "So he did that much for Barry?"

"That, at any rate, and I'm so glad to do more." Briefly she outlined her conversation with Mr. Garretson earlier in the day.

"But what can you do for Barry," asked Lottie, puzzled. "If the money's all tied up this way?"

"That's why I'm engaging you to be my companion and secretary," Mona pointed out seriously. "You can think of a way!"

"Maybe," Lottie's tone was doubtful. "Listen, Mona, if my job depends on finding a way to ladle out $10,000,000 to Barry maybe I'd better not resign from Pilgrim's. I don't see how."

"Don't be silly. I want you anyway. But I am!"

Dinner arrived and the girls drew easy chairs before the fire. The butler busied himself with gleaming silver and white linen. Then he left the two alone over their coffee.

"It's the life!" sighed Lottie. "I'll take you up on that offer, Mona."

When the servant appeared to remove the remains of dinner, Mona asked him to bring in a newspaper. She searched it carefully in silence. "Stock market?" asked Lottie, at ease on the chaise longue, her arms flung over her golden head.

"Shipping news," said Mona quietly as the servant closed the door. "It's to be a secret, Lottie."

"A secret?"

Mona, scanning the page, nodded. Then, her finger on a single item, she rose triumphantly. "The Milandais sails a week from tomorrow, Lottie."

"I don't get you, darling. The Milandais is for machinery, I thought."

"She carries passengers. How would you like to go to South America, Lottie, to see Steve?"

Lottie sat up straight, her blue eyes gleaming, her hair ruffled from contact with the pillows.

"Mona Moran!" she cried. "I'm slipping! I've been your companion for 20 minutes and it's taken both of us all this while to think of that!"

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Brothers, by A. G. Strong published by Alfred A. Knopf. "Brothers" is somewhat of a contrast to this author's previous most recent book, "The Garden." Although there is not the charming delicacy of feeling which is always associated with childhood as was "The Garden," there is greater strength of feeling. "The Garden" is set in the north of Scotland, among the dour fishing folk who scotch on the side.

There are two brothers in the story: Fergus and Peter. Fergus is a simple, honest, and kindhearted man, but his forte was his strength. Peter was his intellect. Fergus knew the shores and the tides and the fishing places and the way of nature thereabouts better than most men. Peter was keen mentally.

When the father, Hector, died he made Fergus look to Peter as the head of the family and carry out his will. Fergus had been brought up to respect Peter as the leader and it came natural to him to do as Peter told him. But Peter had a diabolical strain. He easily led Fergus to commit a terrible deed and avoided sharing the consequences. He was weak in spirit as he was in body.

There are three or four outstanding episodes in the book. There is Fergus' fight with the Congoriel which caught his finger when he foolishly and carelessly searched for a lobster in a dark crevice. Then there is the coming and the death of the Congoriel—all fine pictures.

It is an excellent portrayal of a people who have not been "done to death" in literature.

"Never Ask the End," by Isabel Paterson, published by William Morrow and company.

"Never Ask the End" tells of several weeks in the lives of three people, two American women of 40 and an American business man living in Paris.

They junket about Europe a bit, the pleasure excursions being interrupted now and then by the business of the man. In the end, both women fall somewhat in love with him. Six years before, the doctor had given him six more years to live. Having survived those, he now hopes for two years more, one to finish the work he had ahead of him and the other to make a trip around the world in the interest of memories of former wanderings about the world.

Russ' situation, together with that of Marta and Pauline, the two women, gives an atmosphere of a little backwash of life, a temporary, quiet interlude, for taking stock, reminiscing, arranging, preparing for the last of life.

Pauline had recently buried her husband, George, who had been a drunk. He was an able executive when he was sober. George kept the business together, and Pauline kept George together for many years. Marta had married Keith, whom Pauline loved and feels compunctions about it, particularly since she hadn't dated on Keith after they were married. Pauline saw Marta as one of those women intensely and inevitably fascinating to men. The men, Marta knew, didn't feel the same way.

There is a great deal in the book concerning the trains of thought of the various characters.

COSSACK CHORUS TO SING AT CLAREMONT

CLAREMONT, Feb. 4.—The Don Cossacks, famous Russian male chorus, which more than packed Bridgman auditorium last year, are being brought back for a return engagement on Saturday evening, February 11, in response to popular demand. Many who heard their remarkable program last year, and others who are not missing the chance this year, are already sending in a flood of reservation preferences.

Starwart sons of the Russian Don, these 36 men of the former Imperial army have a natural range and power that has astonished the musical world. They not only have superb voices, but are so perfectly disciplined that they sing as one great musical instrument.

They were organized as a chorus in a prison camp near Constantinople, following the collapse of the White army under General Wrangel. As men without a country they travel on Nansen passes issued by the League of Nations, with the phrase "en voyage" substituted for the name of the country.

For all the effort, however, there is a sense of unreality. The people are smart, sophisticated, sensitive, but they lack emotional depth. Maybe that is proof of their reality.

There are many amusing lines in the book which will be quoted and chuckled over while the book remains popular.

No Poems by Robert Benchley, published by Harper and Brothers.

"No Poems" will serve well for reading aloud, for like all humor it is best when shared. Mr. Benchley has found in contemporary affairs a fertile field for burlesque and has made the most of it. Most, if not all of the sketches, have appeared in the New York from time to time.

The nature of the topics may be gathered from one or two of the titles. One is "The Lost Continent of Meek"; another is "The Big Gobi Desert Find." One of the essays is on the reversion of adults to children's games, backgammon, etc., and dire predictions of what the tendency will lead to. But at that none of the predictions are quite so devastating as the reality, the jig-saw puzzle. But it must be admitted that Mr. Benchley saw something like that coming. Another essay is "Announcing a New Vitamin," and another "How To Understand Music."

There are others that are even more amusing than the satires, however. There is greater purity in Mr. Benchley's humor when there is not a trace of unkindness. "Hunt-the-cook," describing his effort to tip the cook and waitress before he leaves a country home after a week end visit, is very good; as is also the one "The Truth About Thunderstorms," in which Mr. Benchley confesses his fear of thunderstorms.

PRIZE-WINNING PLAY SET FOR FEB. 18

"Doomsday Circus" by Emjo Basshe, the play that won for its author the Guggenheim Fellowship for 1931, will have its world premiere in Los Angeles at the Orange Grove theater, 720 South Grand street, Saturday, February 18. The play will be given in New York during the current season and is also in rehearsal in Berlin and Moscow.

Presented in Los Angeles under the auspices of the newly organized Collective theater whose purpose is to produce plays of social significance and to present them in the most advanced theatrical form, "Doomsday Circus" will discard traditional forms of staging and the auditorium as well as the stage will be used in presenting the drama, which calls for a cast of 30. Basshe himself is directing the Los Angeles production assisted by Will Geer and Milton Merlin.

Emjo Basshe was one of the founders of the Provincetown Playhouse and was associated there for nine years with Eugene O'Neill and Susan Glaspell, and has directed plays in Boston, Philadelphia and New York. Five of Basshe's plays have already been produced, "Soil," "The Star," "Bitter Fantasy," "The Mountain" and "Plutes and Figures."

"Doomsday Circus" is a drama of contemporary America and presents a panoramic view of the social and economic forces at work in the country today.

OPEN FULLERTON CLASSES SUNDAY

FULLERTON, Feb. 4.—Opening of the series of fellowship meetings will start at 6:30 p. m. Sunday at the Fullerton Presbyterian church when classes will open under direction of A. C. Terrill for the men; Miss Nellie Rumsey for the women; Henry C. MacMaster for college students; Miss Anita Shepherdson for high school people; Mrs. A. C. Terrill for seventh and eighth grade people, and Miss Minnie Morse for children.

Continuation will be at 7:30 p. m., when Rembin Chen will speak to the group in the auditorium. An anthem, composed by W. T. Switzer, a member of the choir, will be sung. The children's choir, under leadership of Mrs. E. M. Cooper will also provide special music at the evening union service.

At the morning hour the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Graham C. Hunter, will preach.

Surprise Shower Held In Hansen

HANSEN, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Clara Karkaker was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening when she was the guest of honor at a shower given for her by Mrs. Stanley Reid, receiving many lovely gifts. The evening, made enjoyable with cards and pleasant conversation, was concluded when the two hostesses, Mrs. Stanley Reid and her mother, Mrs. Effie Shearer, served refreshments of sandwiches, cake, and coffee.

Those enjoying the affair were the Mesdames Charles Eckert, Martha Hanneman, Roy Lathrop, Charles Hicks, Mary Lee Sawtelle, Lydia Hanneman; the Misses Marie Eckert, Geneva Welder, Freda Sawtelle, the two hostesses, and the guest of honor, Mrs. Clara Karkaker.

Husbands of the women gathered at the adjacent home with Herbert Hanneman for cards.

ACTION FILMS START SUNDAY AT WEST COAST

Action is the keynote at the Fox West Coast theater during the coming week, starting Sunday when two new pictures start showing, to be followed by unusual programs during the remainder of the week.

Starting Sunday the theater will show "The Billion Dollar Scandal," starring Robert Armstrong and Constance Cummings, and "Men of America," with Chic Sale, Bill Boyd and Dorothy Wilson.

The Billion Dollar Scandal concerns three paroled prisoners who "get in" on a big deal with several financiers to fleece the government out of oil lands. Bullets scream, sacrifices are made, and the picture ends with the gang wiped out either by their own hands or otherwise—a startling climax for any movie. The cast is unusually good, including Frank Morgan, James Gleason, Irving Pichel, Warren Hymer, Frank Albertson and Hale Hamilton.

"Men of America" is a warning to gangsters to stay out of the West. It shows what could happen to a bunch of gangsters, chased out of the east, who try their machine gunning on men of the old west who shoot from the hip. It is a picture in which Chic Sale as the old man, gives one of his best characterizations. Bill Boyd as the lead, was never better.

WARREN WILLIAM AND IRENE DUNN COMING THURSDAY

"No Other Woman," starring Irene Dunn, Charles Bickford and Eric Linden, together with "Employees Entrance," latest Warren William production will be the last of the week menu at the Fox Broadway theater, succeeding "The Mummy" and "She Done Him Wrong."

The entire week's bill gives the theater four top notch pictures, probably as good as could be selected.

"No Other Woman" is the story of a couple who rise from the sordid surroundings of a steel mill to a place in the sun with a million dollars and high society. Enter a blond and a crooked attorney and the husband is enticed to sue for divorce. Then the wife takes a hand in affairs and while they are unusual, they are just as exciting.

Warren William is seen as the head of a department store in "Employees Entrance." All the inner working before and after business hours, in a big department store is rather a sojourn from the usual type of pictures and as a result, a unique story is worked out and presented in the best possible manner. It is a picture that has howled with success from the start and probably will be called the best picture of the week in Santa Ana.

"Beyond Rockies" Ends S. A. Showing

Final showing of the exciting picture "Beyond the Rockies" starring Tom Keene, will be made at the Walker State theater tonight. Crammed with rip-snorting action and thrilling suspense, the plot is evenly unfolded by a splendid supporting cast while Keene is seen as a dare devil, hard riding ranger.

Top—Standing, Dynamite, Slicker, Sheriff, Nubbins, and Curley Fletcher. Seated—center, Sleepy; bottom—Shorty and Irontail.

"Wranglers" In One Day Show In S. A.

"The Arizona Wranglers," famous singers from radio station KNX, together with the picture "Red Haired Alibi," will be seen at the Fox West Coast theater Wednesday. The program is for the one day only.

The fame of The Arizona Wranglers makes their appearance in Santa Ana extremely popular at this time. They will appear on a program which will start at 2:15 p. m., running continuously until 11 p. m. The West Coast theater generally does not stage matinees.

"Red Haired Alibi" is a drama of suppressed emotions that rise suddenly and flare brilliantly as a country girl, played by Myrna Kennedy, falls into the coils of a gangster and is about to be tried for his murder when she gets a "break" which changes the entire story. Grant Withers plays opposite Miss Kennedy.

Admission prices for the one-day show will be advanced 25 cents for any seat in the house, it was announced.

"HELLO EVERYBODY" ENDS ENGAGEMENT

Kate Smith's "Hello Everybody" in which the 212 pound singer has the starring role, together with "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," with Barbara Stanwyck, which has been playing at Fox Broadway theater since Thursday, ends its Santa Ana showing tonight.

The pictures, so different from each other, are sure fine entertainment and crowded houses have greeted each performance. Miss Smith introduces four new song hits, in each showing why she is known as "The Song Bird of the South."

"THE MUMMY" AND MAE WEST HERE SUNDAY

"The Mummy," one of the most uncanny pictures ever brought to the screen, more bizarre than "Frankenstein" or "Dracula," opens a four day engagement at the Fox Broadway theater, starting tomorrow.

With it comes "She Done Him Wrong," starring Mae West, a story she wrote herself and in which she makes her second film appearance.

"The Mummy" stars Karloff, the Frankenstein of pictures and with him is seen, Zita Johann, David Manners, Arthur Byron, Bramwell Fletcher and a host of others.

The plot centers around a mummy 3700 years old who comes back to life to seek the love he left when he died. He thinks he sees this love in a young girl and he all but wrecks her life and the life of her sweetheart. The suspense, the drama and the exciting moments of "The Mummy" will be remembered for a long time.

"She Done Him Wrong" is a story of the New York Bowery, with its collection of wide open saloons, wise guys and frivolous dames. It centers around a singer known as "Lady Lou" who has a way with men and who accepts their attentions and their charms. Miss West appears in the role. Noah Beery, as a saloon keeper and Cary Grant is seen in the chief masculine roles.

"STATE FAIR" WITH WILL ROGERS GETS WEEK ENGAGEMENT

Booked for an entire week at the Fox West Coast theater starting Thursday is "State Fair," Will Rogers' newest picture with an all star cast.

It is the first time in more than two years that a picture has been booked into a Santa Ana theater for a week's run, which gives an idea of the importance of the production. Prices will be raised from the usual 15 cents to 25 cents for the production, Eddie Graham, manager, announced today.

In the cast with Rogers is Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Frank Craven, Louise Dresser and Victor Jory.

The film is a typical Will Rogers show, in which his sense of humor, his wise cracks and his sage remarks are displayed brilliantly.

County Clubwomen Hold Board Meeting in Brea Clubhouse

Important legislation now pending in state and national politics came in for discussion at yesterday's bi-monthly executive board meeting of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs held in the Brea Women's clubhouse. Adding interest to the morning program and discussions was the introduction of Assemblyman Edward Craig of Brea, who discussed current bills in the state legislature, and pointed out the possibility of a sales tax, increased income tax or a turnover tax which would affect all businesses turning over a thousand dollars a year.

A program theme of International Relations was developed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Francis W. Davis of Brea. Mrs. George Bummell, southern district chairman, conducted a round table discussion on "The How and Why of World Peace." Short talks were given by Mrs. Frank Rosapaw of Placentia on "World Danger Zones"; Mrs. C. W. Austin of Anaheim on "The Economic Crisis Involved in the War Debt Situation," and Mrs. Davis on the Disarmament Conference.

Mrs. Maynard Thayer of Pasadena was luncheon speaker, relating details of the Cause and Cure of War conference which she attended in Washington last month. The afternoon program had been arranged by Mrs. Henry Warren, county chairman of the state chapter, and introduced the state chairman, Mrs. C. P. Morgan.

She spoke on the Indians of California, of whom there are some 26,000, and told of their needs and what is being accomplished by the Bureau of Indian Welfare. Other affairs of the afternoon included Mrs. Albert Launer's report of the recent state board meeting in Fontana; Mrs. N. Washburn's discussion of educational books including "A New Deal" by Stuart Chase, and the appointment of Mrs. Charles Rapp as arts and crafts chairman, and Mrs. Ray Marsh (La Habra) as American home chairman.

Announcement was made that the county federation convention would be held April 21 in Santa Ana. The clubwomen will close with the luncheon hour to permit clubwomen to motor to Riverside where Mrs. Grace Morrison Peele will be speaker at the afternoon session of the Riverside County federation.

Announcement of Late January Marriage Made Today

Having returned to this city to establish their home, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hart are acquainting their friends of their marriage, an event of Thursday, January 26 in Yuma, Ariz.

Mrs. Hart was formerly Milna Anderson of this city. For the quiet marriage ceremony, she was smartly gowned in a traveling costume.

They are postponing their honeymoon trip until a future date. Announcement of the marriage of the local couple comes as a surprise to their friends here. Mr. Hart is engaged as a salesman.

Santa Ana Woman Will Be Club Hostess

Women of the Willing Workers club were received yesterday in the home of Mrs. Mabel Lee in Olive at an all day session at which co-hostesses were Mrs. Frieda Porter and Mrs. Bessie Dollard.

A Bible lesson was conducted by Mrs. Lee, members passing the remainder of the afternoon socially. Mrs. Charles Grove, 2046 South Broadway, Santa Ana, will entertain the club February 17.

A visitor yesterday was Mrs. Carrie Lewis of Orange, members present including Mesdames Sophia Lutz, Theodore Erickson, Etta Huffman, Martha Stone, Docia Kerns, Sarah Gorr, A. E. Barnett, Mercy Van Buren, Blanche Campbell, Ada Miller, Charles Grove, Frances Allen, Grace Deck, and grandson, Jackie Deck; Gladys McDonald, Florence Merriman, Edna Roger, Edna McCullen, Margaret Smith, Euphemia Ralls and Roland Hall.

Orchestra Selected For Fifth Annual D. A. V. Ball

One of the most important details of the D. A. V. military ball to be given February 22 in the Valencia ballroom on Anaheim boulevard, was completed today with the selection of the Rendezvous orchestra of Balboa for the dance program. To J. Riley Huber, chairman, and his music committee, was delegated the responsibility of choosing the orchestra, and his announcement made today, of the acquisition of the Rendezvous players, will undoubtedly meet with general satisfaction. Under the direction of Everett Hoagland, the 11-piece orchestra will present a varied program of late dance favorites. Patrons of the annual balls when they were held in St. Ann's Inn, recall with pleasant memories, the fine dance music played by this same talented organization.

Stressing the military significance of the evening will be the presence of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps for several spirited program numbers; a score of reserve officers of Orange county, all of whom will don the uniforms which they wore in the days of 1917-1918; members of the National guard, and a goodly number of military and naval officers, who already have indicated their intention of accepting invitations to the function.

Major Earl B. Hawks, commander of Jack Fleiter chapter D. A. V., and general chairman of the committee on arrangements for the ball, has encountered a pleasant reaction from the public since announcement was made of the choice of Valencia ballroom for the festivity. "Prospective guests and patrons have commented to me upon the excellent floor at the ballroom, and upon the advantages of the loud speaker system which will add greatly to the entertainment features of the evening," he declared.

The Citizens' committee meeting of Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the A. G. Flag home, 1320 North Broadway, promises to be an unusually well attended one, since matters of special importance are to be discussed and final arrangements made for many entertainment and special features of the ball.

Sorority Meeting Has Guests From Other Chapters

Guests from Long Beach, Pomona and Fullerton chapters of Kappa Delta Phi sorority joined Santa Ana members at their regular meeting this week in the home of Miss Frances Henry, 210 South Broadway, where one of the sorority's "province nights" was celebrated. These sessions are of monthly occurrence and are held in the different cities where chapters are active, and attended by representatives of the remaining chapters, so that closer community and friendships are established.

The Santa Ana members proceeded with their usual business features including plans for a covered dish supper for their next Tuesday meeting and a progressive dinner on the following Tuesday. Members and guests enjoyed the dainty supper menu served at the conclusion of the business meeting and then cards were played for the remainder of the evening.

Those from Long Beach attending the meeting were Miss Vera Pabst and Howard G. Cleveland, sponsor; from Pomona were Miss Irene Karr, Miss Mary Fleming, Miss Eleanor Mitchell and Miss Lorraine Aaron; Fullerton was represented by the Misses Velma Stewart, Mary Cary, Kathleen Cook and Hyacinth Hedbrink. Members of the local chapter present were the Misses Frances Henry, Kay Maxwell, Kay Pierce, Louise Pee, Marcene Cook, Inez Pierce, Stella Schlesinger, Mrs. Charles Woodhill and Mrs. Al Stein.

Parent-Teachers

Choosing "Home" as his topic, the Rev. Harry E. Owings, pastor of First Baptist church, carried a beneficial message to members of Pauline Parent-Teacher association which held a covered dish dinner Thursday at noon in the Pauline school for teachers, parents and pupils. The next meeting of the P.-T. A. will be held March 2 in the home of Mrs. O. D. Jesse, East of Newport road, with a covered dish dinner served at noon.

INTERESTING YOUNG PEOPLE DIVIDE ATTENTION BETWEEN CAREERS IN MATRIMONY AND IN MUSIC

MRS. STEWART M. LAST

MRS. STEWART M. LAST
Returning today to Santa Ana, the home of her girlhood, Mrs. Stewart M. Last, or to use her professional name, Mary Wilkes Last, delighted the members of Santa Ana chapter, D. A. V., with her song program at their luncheon in the Y. W. clubrooms, in observance of Washington's Birthday.

Mrs. Last, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Wilkes, East Santa Clara avenue, lives in San Marina, and her clear and lovely soprano voice is in constant demand for musical programs in Los Angeles and vicinity.

MRS. WAYNE A. DAVIS
It was in the Orange First Presbyterian church on Monday night, January 30, that Miss Frances Harper, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harper, East River street, Orange, became the bride of a young Nebraskan, Wayne A. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, Cozad, Neb. The new Mr. and Mrs. Davis are now enjoying a Southland honeymoon, but will return for a brief visit with the bride's parents before leaving for their future home in Cozad. They will go by automobile and will visit the Grand Canyon and other places of interest on their leisurely travels.

MRS. LAWRENCE W. BOLLES
The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hobbs of Redlands, to Lawrence W. Bolles, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bolles, 1501 North Ross street, Santa Ana, was of special interest here where friends of Mr. Bolles are eager to greet his charming bride. The wedding was a formal church event of January 22 and after the reception concluding the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bolles left for an automobile honeymoon. They will make their home in Moor Park and Mr. Bolles will pursue his field work in geology for his alma mater, California Institute of Technology. His bride completed her college work at Scripps last year.

Junior Ebell Club Opens Judge Bullock Lecture To General Society

Junior Ebell society members are regarding as a distinct coup their procurement of Judge George P. Bullock of Los Angeles, eminent woman jurist, as speaker at their February meeting Tuesday night. Because of the speaker's renown the club has opened the lecture to husbands of members and to Ebell women and their husbands. Scheduled to take place in Ebell auditorium at 8:15 o'clock, the address will follow a brief business session which Ebell juniors will conduct in the lounge at 7:30 o'clock.

Because she has two married children of her own; because of her wide experience in the court room, and because of the type of that experience, Judge Bullock's topic, "The Responsibilities of a Particular Home" is regarded as a particularly happy one. Intimate stories of happening within her own court life may be expected to amplify Judge Bullock's account of "how other people live." The extent to which the home may be blamed for the warped lives which she has encountered in her court room, and the degree to which law in general, and her own jurisdiction in particular has been able to order the problems in each case will be among points made in the Los Angeles woman's lecture, according to Junior Ebell officials.

Educated in Chicago and in South Wales, England, Judge Bullock, attracted by Southern California, traveled to Los Angeles to enter the University of Southern California from which she subsequently received her L.L.D. degree. With the exception of 11 months spent in the district attorney's office as deputy district attorney, Judge Bullock practiced law in Los Angeles continuously from 1913, date of her admission to the California bar, to 1925. Since then she has been a referee of women's cases in the police court; judge pro-tem in the superior court, police judge, municipal judge, judge of the superior court since 1931, and probate court appraiser.

A large number of sororities and professional orders claim Judge Bullock either as a member or an honorary affiliate, these organizations including the Phi Delta Delta international sorority, of which she is a founder; Chi Omega sorority, Pi Kappa Sigma sorority, National Association of Women Lawyers, of which she is a past national vice president; American Bar association, the Zonta club, Inc., Business and Professional club, Women's Athletic club and W. C. T. U. Judge Bullock also is the holder of a citation from the American Legion auxiliary, Unit 273.

Other February activities of the Junior Ebell society are announced in a "News Letter," newly founded monthly publication of the organization, the first issue of which is being mailed members this week end. The "News Letter," to be devoted exclusively to the interests of Junior Ebell club members, is being compiled and published by the publicity writing section of the society, under the direction of Henry Hodges of Placentia.

National B. P. W. Head To Be Honored at San Diego

In common with other California clubs of Business and Professional Women, Santa Ana members of that organization are interested in the visit to this state of the national president, Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman of Richmond, Va. Mrs. Bowman arrived Wednesday, February 1, in Sacramento, and the two weeks until her sailing on February 13, have been planned in complete detail by clubs of the state.

Interest of Santa Ana members is directed more particularly towards Mrs. Bowman's visit to this district when she will be entertained in San Diego on Saturday, February 11. All clubs of the Southern district, recently given definite organization at a meeting in this city, will be represented and many local Business and Professional Women are arranging to attend.

Mrs. Adelaide Cochran, Santa Ana president, and Mrs. Marshall Northcross, Jr., district vice president, today announced plans for the occasion to include a business meeting at 4 o'clock in the San Diego Y. W. C. A., 1010 C street. This will be followed by a dinner and reception complimenting Mrs. Bowman, to be given in the San Diego club at Sixth and A streets at 6:30 o'clock. Reservations for this event must be sent to San Diego by Thursday, February 9, so Santa Ana clubwomen planning to attend, are asked to notify Mrs. N. E. Mayhill, reservation chairman, in advance of that date.

For those who plan to remain in San Diego for Sunday, the three hostess clubs of that city have announced that sight-seeing trips have been arranged and cars will be placed at the disposal of all guests. Fuller details of the meeting will be revealed to local clubwomen at the regular B. P. W. dinner meeting Monday night at 6 o'clock in Ketter's gold room.

Mrs. Blanche Brown, program chairman for February, has secured an interesting speaker for Monday evening, in Mrs. Robert S. Wade who will talk on Canada and her native Montreal. Mrs. Wade, who is president of Junior Ebell society, has aroused much interest in her informal talks on her native city, and Business and Professional Women are anticipating one of the pleasantest programs of the early spring.

Chairmen for Women Golfers Named by Mrs. McFadden

Announcement of chairman appointments for 1933 was made Thursday by Mrs. J. Lamont McFadden, general chairman of the Santa Ana Country Club Women Golfers, coincident with the association's annual cup day. Appointees include Mrs. Hugh Shields, finance; Mrs. Norbert E. Lentz, press; Mrs. Don Andrews, B-class; and Mrs. Ellen Thompson, C-class.

Mrs. McFadden also announced that play in the A-class 54 hole tournament would continue through Sunday, and that the B-class ringer tournament would continue up to and including March 31.

Winners in Thursday's cup play were, A-class: Mrs. John McDonald, first; Miss Lolita Mead, second; Mrs. Hugh Shields, third; B-class: Mrs. Edwin Van Meter, first; Mrs. Don Andrews, second; Miss Lou Pomeroy, and Mrs. Walter Prince, tied third; C-class, Mrs. R. G. Cartwright.

Women golfers entered in the tourney were Mesdames F. C. Drumm, Osman-Pixley, Hugh Shields, Charles Doty, E. K. Gerhardt, Norbert E. Lentz, Homer Robinson, Gordon Talbert, B. W. McClure, John McDonald, Walter Prince, Edwin Van Meter, Don Andrews, Roy Langley, Charles Cogan, R. G. Cartwright, E. T. Muter, the Misses Marguerite Way, Lolita Mead and Lou Pomeroy.

Birthday Observance Is Given Form of Dinner Party

Mrs. D. G. Cole of 711 North Main street, was paid a charming birthday compliment Wednesday, when her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Wakeham, entertained at dinner in her home on Magnolia avenue, celebrating the seventieth birthday anniversary of her mother.

Guests sought places at a table decked with sweet peas in soft pastel colors, and were served a delicious fried chicken menu. The dessert course included a birthday cake, glittering with pink and white candles. A pleasantly informal social hour followed when guests coupled their birthday wishes with pretty gifts for Mrs. Cole.

Mrs. Wakeham entertained in addition to her mother and honor-ees, Mrs. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McDonald, Mrs. Ronin and Mrs. Bell of Long Beach; Mrs. R. O. DuBois of Orange; Mrs. B. G. Duppill and Mrs. George Cole of Garden Grove; Mrs. Fred Cole, Mrs. Ralph Cole and children, Clifton, Connie and David; Mrs. Ella Cole and Mrs. Robinson of Santa Ana.

Local Students Attend Formal Dance in Long Beach

As a delightful courtesy to members of the Jaycee executive board and to the college itself, Long Beach junior college issued formal invitations to the board and its guests to attend their annual sophomore prom which was held Thursday night in Long Beach Municipal auditorium.

It was an enjoyable and successful affair. More than 500 students and guests were in attendance and danced to music furnished by a ten-piece orchestra. Those participating from the local college were the Misses Jean Lieve, Betty Perdue, Margaret Guard, Emily Marsh, Helen Bower, Pauline Berry, Saragrace Frampton and Ruth Collins; Messrs. Martin Bowman, Gene Hall, George Mathews, Bill Campbell, Al Forsey, Miner Whitford, But Essert and Roy Wheeler.

Sorority Program Tea Promises to Draw Many Guests

California Sigma chapter members of Beta Sigma Phi sorority are anticipating a large crowd at their program tea to be given tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Y. W. club rooms, and are making elaborate preparations to receive their guests and offer them a quite delightful entertainment.

Invitation to the tea has been a general one, so that anyone interested in what the sorority is accomplishing, and in the musical and dramatic phases of entertainment, will be assured both of a cordial welcome and an enjoyable afternoon.

Miss Mary Ford, sorority president, will announce the features including a valentine fantasy, "Pierrot and Pierrette"; a playlet, "Nevertheless," and a pantomime, "New Worlds." Each feature will have its own musical and stage setting, and musicians like members of the sorority, Mrs. Newell Moore, leader of this interesting group of girls, will direct the different features.

Men and women of the guest group will be asked to contribute to the silver offering for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. Astoriam conference fund.

Newly Elected Officers Installed at Special Meeting

Calling a special meeting Thursday night for the purpose of installing officers and making plans for future social activities, members of Santa Ana Junior College Buccaneers met in the home of Rhodes Finley on East Fourth street.

Following installation ceremonies for Dick Heffern, president; Ted Neece, vice president; George Lake, secretary and treasurer, and Johnny Wells, bouncer, plans were made for a rush party to be held next Friday evening at the beach. Tentative plans also were under discussion concerning the annual May yachting party which members of the organization give each year for the entire junior college. More definite arrangements will be made Monday night when the club will meet in the home of Tom Kistingner, North Broadway, at 7 o'clock.

Present were Bill McDaniel, Johnny Wells, Wendel Kanaway, George Lake, Tom Kistingner, Harold Post, Ted Neece, Clarence Lewis, Jack Wright, Ray Hoar, Earl Motley, Clayton McKeeth, Joseph Wilson, Lawrence Ridenour, Rhodes Finley, Bill Kistingner, Russell Koons, Harold Dittmer, Kenneth Eastman, Fred Brooks, Jimmy Hatchedon, Dean Hyatt and Dick Heffern.

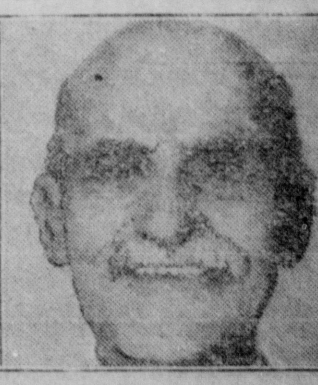

Trio of Santa Anas Identified With Oratorio

Three Santa Ana women, Rosemary Rose of this city and Hollywood; Irma Huffman May, Santa Ana, and Sally Lee Scales of Santa Ana and Orange, are taking prominent part in the production of the oratorio, "The Creation," to be presented under the auspices of the Anaheim Elks lodge in the Elks auditorium, Anaheim, the evening of March 31. Proceeds will go to charity, according to report.

Rehearsals are being held in the Elks temple, Anaheim, each Monday under the direction of Madame Rose, in charge of the production. Mrs. May and Mrs. Scales are among the five Orange county singers comprising the cast of principals. A chorus of 60 will supplement the individual work.

Both Mrs. May and Mrs. Scales, sopranos, will be heard in duets, in the oratorio, the former singing with Mrs. Dunning of Anaheim, and the latter with Richard Taylor, also of that city.

"R.F.D." Theme Governs Pegasus Manuscripts

The term "R. F. D.", assigned Pegasus club members as a program theme, resulted in the composition of a variety of papers and poems upon rural subjects, submitted at a meeting Thursday when the club convened with Mrs. Walter Foote, 518 East Myrtle street.

As faithful, as her guests to the theme selected, Mrs. Foote had rearranged her home to conform with the country motif, various farm animals in miniature form comprising the original decorations. Refreshments served following the program were equally appropriate, while the hostess allowed her guests to quench their thirst via dippers, from a pail of water.

Thursday's contributors and their offerings were Mrs. George Bond's poem, "A Country Picture," read by Mrs. Hugh Neighbor; Mrs. Justus Richter, poem, "The Alibi"; Mrs. Earl Morris, book review, "A Fortune to Share" (Vash Young); Mrs. Marjorie Lusk, story, "L. M. Miles—R. F. D."; Mrs. Charles Fuller, poem, "Evening Song"; Mrs. Hugh Neighbor, story, "Mary Smith—R. F. D."; and Mrs. Walter Foote, verses, "Country Trunk K".

Other contributions were those of Mrs. Frank Was, a play, "Unto Each His Own"; Mrs. Malcolm McCurda, paper, "Maple Lawn, North Hampshire"; Mrs. Frank Lansdown, story, "The Mystic Clue"; and Mrs. Almira Patterson, a guest, who submitted a prose essay, "Didgeridoo." Others present were Mrs. Caleb Jackson and Mrs. Harry Havelly.

Mrs. Marjorie Lusk reported that she had recently won eleventh prize in a national story contest. The club voted Mrs. Dorothy Davis a Pegasus member.

Mrs. Foote was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Cal Wilke.

Announcements

The First Christian Dorcas club will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the community house. Hostesses will be Mesdames Royce Williams and Thomas McAdoo.

Santa Ana Women's club will celebrate its thirty-third anniversary next Tuesday with a mid-day dinner for all members and their guests, to be served in the Green Cat cafe promptly at 12:30 o'clock. A committee has been named to contact each member in regard to her reservations and those for such guests as she may wish to entertain. Mrs. William Whitehead, as program chairman, has promised an entertaining afternoon.

Torosa Rebekah lodge will have a covered-dish dinner Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in I.O.O.F. hall, preceding a regular meeting, program and valentine party. The program is to be put on by a local dancing studio.

ANN MEREDITH'S

MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner

Plate of vegetable soup or clam broth made with skim milk 6 ounces pan-broiled steak 4 Tbsp. mashed carrot 3 Tbsp. string beans 2 teaspoons butter for vegetables Large serving of shrimp salad Mineral oil French dressing Clear tea or black coffee The steak may be the lowly hamburger, or top sirloin if you feel rich. Whatever it is, just brush the pan with salad oil, heat quickly, put on the steak and broil to your taste.

Try a combination of garlic salt and celery salt for seasoning your meats. It's swell! You can buy these seasonings for ten cents per bottle, they save time and bother and for the shrimp salad take out your portion before dressing of any kind is mixed with it. Shred crisp cabbage, a little green pepper and a grating of onion. Combine with sliced shrimp. Serve on lettuce leaves with both kinds of dressing.

Caraway Rye Bread

2 cups hot milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon molasses
2 teaspoons salt
1 yeast cake dissolved in 1/2 cup tepid water
6 cups rye flour
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour.

Perhaps some of the family may not care for caraway seed in rye bread. If that's the case do not put in the caraway seed when the sponge is first mixed. Divide the dough in half, work caraway seed into one half and candied orange peel into the other. Then, everyone's happy.

Scald the milk, add sugar, molasses, butter and salt to it, and cool. Dissolve the yeast cake in the half cup of tepid water. Stir into the milk after it has cooled to blood warmth. Sift and measure the rye flour. Let it stand in the open oven to remove chill. Stir into the milk until the rye flour is in. Use the whole wheat flour to knead the dough. Follow directions for using the caraway seed unless you prefer the whole batch with that flavor. In that case put it in while the dough is being mixed.

Have a large bowl warmed and brushed with oil. Let the bread rise until it has doubled its bulk. Turn onto the board, knead lightly, shape into loaves, place in oiled bread tins, cover and let rise till very light. Bake in a hot oven at 375, then reduce the heat until bread shrinks from edges of pan.

The recipe makes 3 medium sized loaves.

Fraternal Aid Union

Attended by a large group of members who had been unable to be present for home time, the latest meeting of Fraternal Aid union, held in M. W. A. hall, proved to be an unusually enjoyable affair.

Women of the lodge found this especially true for they were presented with a merle board on behalf of William McCord, who is ill and unable to attend meetings. He thus expressed his appreciation of the many kindnesses shown him during his illness by his associates in the lodge.

Delicious refreshments served and all appointments were in keeping with an attractive valentine motif. Cards and other games were enjoyed under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Jarrett and C. E. Jasper.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus Chooses the Twelve

Text: Mark 3:17-19

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for February 5.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

In the outward fame of Jesus, the place that He has occupied in history is shared by the twelve apostles, the men whom He drew from humble life and introduced into power and glory by sharing with them His mission and His purpose.

One of the twelve, it is true, proved to be a traitor, and probably in the minds of most of those who are responsive to the Christian story the place of Judas is occupied by the great figure who looms so large in the New Testament, Paul of Tarsus.

Of the twelve men who came into the inner circle of the Master's counsels and ministry of redemption comparatively little is known. Some of them are for us little more than names, although others stand very boldly and clearly portrayed in their chief traits of character, scarce as are the details of their full history.

Impulsive Peter stands before us as a figure of flesh and blood, a strange being in the blending of courage and fear, of bold adventuring and gloomy disheartenment. James and John are forever characterized in the name that Jesus bestowed upon them, "Boanerges, the sons of thunder."

We fail to understand the Master if we do not appreciate in him and in his teachings the element of humor, as well as deep moral and spiritual intensity.

This element of humor comes out in various of His parables in which the contrast was made very striking, and it was apparently in this spirit that He bestowed the nickname, "Boanerges," upon those fiery men. Inspired with the intensity of ambition through their mother's zeal, and conceiving of the work in which they were engaged as one of glory for them and for their Master rather than as a great task of love.

It was James and John who, when Jesus was discourteously received in a village, wanted Him to call down fire from Heaven and consume the villagers.

Jesus reminded them that they did not know what spirit they were of, and it is the most notable evidence that the Gospel did finally lay hold of the souls of these men with all its strength and fullness that they came to perceive that love and devotion were the supreme things in the world.

It is a great mistake to think of Jesus as an unconventional teacher concerned only about speaking His message and with no interest in organization. As a matter of fact, it would appear that one of the great secrets of His power lay in the organization of His ministry in the way in which He chose the twelve and sent them forth, and later appointed 70 others to go, two by two, into the various villages proclaiming the Gospel.

What was distinctive in Jesus was that zeal for organization never weakened the emphasis upon truth and life. The nature of the organization was a fellowship of faith, and the bond that held these early disciples together in the work that they had to do was the bond of intense devotion to the cause in which Jesus had enlisted them.

It would be well today if we could learn from Jesus in these things, if all our religious organizations could be dominated with zeal for the Master, and zeal for the Master could at the same time find its most effective means of attaining its end through organization and expression.

COME to CHURCH

"Religion in American History"

ABRAHAM LINCOLN at GETTYSBURG

"...that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth." Lincoln, freer of the trodden—one of the world's greatest men, was inspired by God, and believed that He alone would safely guide our nation to the greatness of a new freedom. In the lives of all noble men, and in all their utterances, is found the inspiration of the Church. Who then, are we, to forget the worthiness of its teachings, or to fail in building for ourselves the Faith which has made man carry on through all past ages.

When Duncy flopped down to the ground, the Tinymites all gathered 'round and shouted, "Well, you lost your match, but even so, 'twas fun. The two cubs leaped and made you fall. You didn't have a chance at all. Guess we never will know just how well you might have done."

"Say, you are pretty fair to me," said Duncy. "I can plainly see that it was quite a funny sight to see me take a spill. I will admit the cubs are slick. For me they simply were too quick. Now, don't ask that I wrestle any more. I never will."

"HA, HA!" laughed Coppy. "That's the stuff. You know when you have had enough. Now give the bears some credit. They were winners, fair and square. We didn't think they were strong, but that's where all of us were wrong. If I had been in your place, I'd have had an awful scare."

Then Duncy jumped up to his feet and said, "I wish I had a treat for both the cubs. They've earned it, but what is there I can give?"

"Well, son, I know of something real," the hunter said. "I'll fix a meal. Bring both the cubs and follow me. We'll go to where I live. When all the bunch had walked inside the hunter's cabin Duncy cried, "Let's give the wee bears bread and milk. I'll feed them both, my self."

The hunter answered, with a grin, "Put napkins under each bear's chin and place them by the table. I'll get food down from the shelf."

Soon both bears were eating fast. Said Duncy, "Hey, this will not last unless you go much slower. Do you want a tummyache?"

"I'm going to feed you with a spoon. You'll have a fill, cubs, pretty soon." Oh, my, what funny faces both the little bears could make.

(Duncy dresses the bears up in the next story.)

The key to a situation usually will open opportunity's door

He was sent to the sanitarium for rapid consumption. My face is not dirty. I wiped as far as my shirt would go. I know I can't live to see the time when all the fools are dead. Both of the three paid duty as a matter of costume. I couldn't tell you from Eve in that costume. The cook and her colored supplement went to the dance. He ate the hole of my doughnut.

"OFF WITH HIS HEAD"

Faced with the fearful problems which confront the Senate today, it is not pleasant to read of the members of that body devoting so much time to the consideration of David S. Barry, the senate sergeant at arms, even though he did write in the New Outlook, with scandalous implications, regarding some Senators.

On the other hand there is much to be said for the furor which the Senators made over the article. There is a widespread tendency to ridicule the Congress of the United States, charge the members casually with wrong-doing, and belittle them for the amusement of the populace. This is altogether deplorable. It is belittling. After all the members are men and women of our own selecting and any reflections upon them are reflections upon the people who elected them. It is also deplorable, there is no doubt, to set up a governing body and surround it with the sacredness of a religious fetish so that there is no corrective criticism such as enables the Congress to reflect the will of the people and realize that the eyes of the voters are upon them. But voluntarily restraining from the petty biting at the heels of Congress, and cheap ridicule, is a different matter. A dignified attitude toward Congress, which evidenced some respect would serve to accentuate its responsible position, bring to its members its high office in the land, and increase the value and merited sound criticism.

It would be more becoming were the people of the United States to defend Congress against the scornful attitude in which it is held by people but as the news reports, goaded by the ridicule of the play which is now running in Washington, "Of Thee I Sing," one can not blame the Senate for rising to its own defense, even though to ignore the attack of the sergeant at arms would probably have been the perfect procedure.

One steamship line receives $87,820 from Uncle Sam for carrying 133 pounds of mail and another gets $363,022 for carrying 133 pounds, says a congressman. That ought to be cheering news to the mailman whose back's still aching from the Christmas rush.

THIS IS REALLY HARD LUCK!

Orange county people a bit nervous because of the breeze, will appreciate the shock experienced by Leo F. Chartrand of Seattle. In the first happy instance he found an old coffee pot full of bills. They totaled $4240. Imagine how his mind galloped forth to do justice to that money. Then the bills turned out to be counterfeit.

The man hasn't lost anything but in these times such an experience is a terrific jolt. Think of rising to his heights of munificence and then dropping to the reality of an old coffee pot stuffed with counterfeit bills! It is a characteristic of human nature to want to blame some one when things go wrong. Some of us make ourselves ridiculous by blaming whomever is around even though they were not remotely connected with our disappointment or trouble. We imagine that this man has an enemy against counterfeiters which exceeds that of any Federal officer whose business it is to catch them.

Archaeologists during 1932 found the ancient Greek city, "Old Chersonesus," which had been lost for 2000 years beneath the Black Sea. Wonder if the tax collector was still around?

MAGAZINE CONFISCATED IN CUBA

Don't fail to look up the New Republic of recent date which contained the criticism of President Machado of Cuba. All the copies of the magazine, have been confiscated by the military censors of Cuba. Therefore we are confident it must be worth reading. At least one naturally becomes mighty curious about it after learning that it was so important in Cuba. At that the article probably isn't so very interesting. It is just the fear complex of these undemocratic governments which lends it emphasis. The agents handling the magazine in Havana had been warned by the military authorities that magazines containing articles against the administration would be sold at their own risk so they delivered a copy of The New Republic to the censors before attempting to place it on sale. Confiscation, it is reported, followed immediately. That is the way things work when a government is maintained by military power, and deceiving and blinding people.

Disintegration of the atom was reported as one of the leading scientific accomplishments of 1932. Perfectly natural in a year like the last for the atom to go broke.

A CORRECTION

In reference to the road fund, we editorially said for the year beginning last July, until this next July, the amount provided for roads was a little over a million dollars. We had in mind the first amount that was suggested.

This has been cut down, and the amount actually was $784,000. We are glad to make this correction. We had stated that there was no doubt but that less than half the amount that had been expended would have been sufficient to keep the roads in repair.

We would not question at all that the money that has been expended has been well expended, as far as its expenditure is concerned. What we have been insisting on is that new roads are unnecessary at this time, and that $450,000 to $500,000 certainly would be sufficient to keep them in the condition which they now are.

There was a marked reduction this year, in fact, as we recall, it was a little bit over half what it was two years ago.

The European Whirligig

News Behind the World News
By John Statesman

JAPAN—Japan is spending plenty of money to gain the favor—or at least the neutral silence—of a section of the European press. The big munitions makers throughout Europe—and their papers—are strong for the Japanese because they figure that any kind of a fight in the Far East will help their business.

Japan has also sent socialist leaders to Europe in an effort to win the approval of European labor groups for their nation's imperialist aims. The seed has fallen on sterile ground. European labor is becoming more hostile to the Japanese cause.

Leon Blum, head of the French socialists, is strong anti-Japanese. He has publicly demanded that France should denounce Japanese aggression, should abstain from giving Japan public or private assistance, and should especially make it clear that she will not give diplomatic recognition to Japanese military conquests.

Blum even goes so far as to suggest the breaking off of diplomatic relations. His views cannot be ignored. He controls an important group of 139 deputies and in certain respects is the virtual dictator of the current parliamentary situation.

The Japanese get a more friendly reception from Italy. Yuseki Matsuo—head of the Japanese delegation to the League of Nations—recently made it a point to visit Italy and stress the similar ideals of his nation and the Fascist government. He even made a pilgrimage to the tomb of Mussolini's father and mother in the village of Predappio. No other diplomat has ever tried that gesture. He received gracious treatment from the government-inspired Italian press.

RUSSIA—Lloyd's of London have what is probably the best information concerning Russia assembled anywhere. Their 1932 insurance operations with the Soviets have shown better profits than have been made anywhere else in the world.

Premiums average 5 per cent. There have been no default. The rigid questionnaires submitted on each operation have been answered with the utmost exactness. Any deviation from the facts would raise rates or cancel policies.

So long as the present triumvirate remains in power the business risk will be regarded as a good one. Any change among the three men will alter the picture substantially.

Trotsky's anti-Stalin campaign from exile seemingly makes little impression on the Soviet dictator. Trotsky's favorite theme is still the necessity for a world revolution. Stalin prefers to concentrate his energies on his domestic program, although foreign propaganda agents are still maintained.

The Soviet government has issued a decree making domestic passports obligatory for all Russian citizens. The idea is to exercise a more rigid control over the movements of all citizens and to combat the increasing emigration from farms to cities, that has arisen from the persecution of the Kulaks (independent farmers). Hereafter the peasants will be kept on the farms whether they like it or not.

INDIA—Patricia Kendall, an American writer whose book "Come With Me to India" has had a great success in England, may have another kind of success to her credit.

She has been active in England in urging the use of tear gas in the place of jathis (police wands) when organized rioting is staged by the Indians. The highest British officials are reported as convinced that American experience with this humane method of breaking up crowds is worth serious investigation.

The Labor party has frowned so effectively on the use of tear gas in dealing with British mobs that Army officials and Scotland Yard have been barred from its employment. It is quite within the possibilities that an understanding of the difference between lethal and humane gas may bring about a radical change in British police administration at home and in India.

BRITAIN—MacDonald, without a party and without an important following, nears the end of his usefulness as a figurehead for a Coalition government. Neville Chamberlain may emerge as a real leader of the Conservatives to replace the pleasant but rather soft Mr. Baldwin.

Winston Churchill has something of a renewed following but the man in the street distrusts him. Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister grows steadily in place and in recognition. Americans are likely to hear much more about him.

DOLE—Last year's British budget was too optimistic about improving employment conditions. The House of Commons had to add nineteen million pounds to the dole appropriation in December. This brought the year's total dole expenditures to one hundred and twenty million pounds.

By way of contrast, the entire budget of the United Kingdom and Ireland in 1898-99—including all the military, naval and administrative expenses at the period of Britain's maximum influence—amounted to only one hundred and eight million pounds.

FRICITION—Franco-Italian relations are getting no better. Sources of friction are numerous and perturbation. A recent incident adding to French irritation has been the imprisonment in Rome of Denis Eydoux, Director of the Paris Polytechnic institute, on a charge of military espionage. Eydoux was supposed to be studying Italian hydro-electric installations, but the Fascist government thought otherwise.

GERMANY—German political complications are getting more involved. President Hindenburg would prefer in good faith to set up a government responsive to a majority in the Reichstag but this solution remains impossible. Von Schleicher showed remarkable political skill and tact for a man of his antecedents but these were not enough to pull him through.

Von Schleicher's demand for armament equality had the warm support of almost all elements of German opinion. National humiliation over the present state of affairs cuts deep. The heavy armaments of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Belgium—to say nothing of France—are a continuous source of irritation.

How completely surprised even those closest to the scene were by Hitler's appointment is illustrated by the fact that a man in the immediate entourage of President von Hindenburg who had been specifically commissioned by interested Americans to advise them on any such possibility could not give any advance information.

Several leading American Jews a few months ago organized an informal committee for the purpose of finding ways and especially means to assist their German co-religionists in the event of Hitler's rise to power and ensuing anti-semitic actions. They agreed that nothing need be done until the above-mentioned official gave the word. There would certainly be ample time then.

That the members of the committee, all men of large affairs, take a serious view of what may happen in Germany is shown by the confidential urgent appeals for funds circulated among a select group of Jewish business men whose discretion can be counted upon. (From American sources.)

THE COMMERCE OF TOMORROW

It may be that money will soon be no est,
I may, when in need of a coat or a vest,
Turn in as part payment an umbrella jar,
And the non-paying stocks that I purchased at par.
But I haven't the great Yankee gift, I'm afraid,
And I'll not be successful at barter and trade.

The hope I possessed
Is beginning to fade;
I am not at my best
With this barter and trade.

I own an old wreck of an automobile,
Which I'd like to exchange for a nourishing meal;
But the restaurant man said disgustedly, "That?"
"Well, I'll swap you a slightly-used second-hand cat."
And when I refused it, his exit he made,
So again I proved futile at barter and trade.

I am sorry to say
That no bargain I made;
I cannot get away
With a barter or trade.

I've a number of things that I don't need at all;
There's a wobbly old davenport out in the hall,
A clock on the stairs that will never keep time,
And a volume entitled, "First Lessons in Rhyme."
But although many offers to swap them I've made,
I haven't as yet had a barter or trade.

I must buy at the mart
Where all bills must be paid,
For I haven't the art
Of this barter and trade.

If a city man isn't dominated by the opinion of the neighbors, why does he look so different on a fishing trip?
A big man always appears to handle a crisis, which shows you that the thing isn't really serious yet.

Beware Technocracy! Man has suffered for ages by waiting too long to yell "Boloney!"
Things even up. The more times a man makes a fool of himself, the easier it is to forget it.

What's the use? If you see the doctor often, you're a neurotic.

If you don't, something slips up and gets you.

THE AVERAGE MAN'S WORD IS STILL AS GOOD AS HIS BOND. HIS SPEECH DRAWS NO INTEREST, EITHER.

You can't expect much in a world where everybody soon forgot to snub Germans for breaking a treaty.

Common American reaction to the racket wickedness: "Gosh! I wish I had one."
The swindler aren't helpless. They can report their loss and see the rascal jailed for not reporting his gain.

AMERICANISM: Fad-following parents shouting encouragement while a social-service worker chases a poor kid that still has tonsils.

Now we know why ancient civilizations disappeared. They just moved to escape paying the bonds.

What the people seem to want is a dress rehearsal by Mr. Roosevelt to show how he will pull rabbits from the hat when the time comes.

If a great man finds it difficult to keep humble, he might read some of the things he said in the last campaign.

Seersucker: A suiting; also a person who gets his ideas from a seer.

THE FIGHT FOR SEX EQUALITY WILL GO ON. THE ONLY DIFFERENCE BEING THAT ANOTHER SEX WILL FIGHT FOR IT.

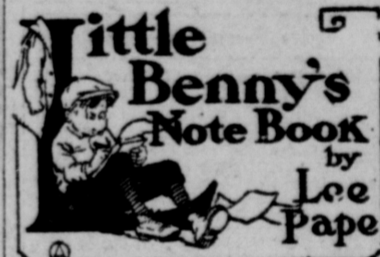

Maybe Mr. Roosevelt is a little bit crippled, but you could mention statesmen who haven't a leg to stand on.

Winning freedom: Acquiring a new set of bosses who don't smell quite so good.

Those Germans who tried to turn a goat into a man might learn the reverse system by coming over to see the inauguration.

You needn't move to New York to resemble a New Yorker. You can buy a collar that is too tight almost anywhere.

SHORT STORY BY LEROY SHOOTER

Nature Is Wonderful

A white egg and a brown egg layed side by side in a red hen's nest, when suddenly at the same moment 2 black chickens stepped carelessly out of them.
"O well," said the surprised hen, "It properly takes all kinds of colors to make a world."

Charles Heinrich, wealthy cattleman of Montana, invested a large sum of money in the beautiful A. C. Tiede ranch, home on West Washington avenue. The tract consisted of 21 acres of walnuts and apricots and was noted as one of the model ranch properties of the county. The Misses Josephine, Bertha and Blanche Tiede, who had managed the ranch after their father's death, announced that they would continue to make their home in Santa Ana.

The Club Pro Patria program in the Intermediate school on the previous evening presented as soloist Madame Manuela V. Budzow, who had been concertizing in Los Angeles with Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer. Cadman had chosen her to sing the arias of his new opera, "Shanewis."

P. G. Beissel of Santa Ana and his brother-in-law, J. Earl Talcott of Anaheim, purchased ten acres of 6-year-old valencias from Frank Pahn, near Fullerton. It was considered exceptionally fine property, and adjoined a ten-acre grove owned by Talcott.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

BUSINESS LOOKS AT THE FUTURE

The Financial World recently sent an interesting questionnaire to 250 presidents of corporations whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

I list here the eight basic questions asked and the results of the replies.

(1) Private conversations with a number of our leading industrialists show that some of them are of the opinion that the current operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are but temporary palliatives, and are piling up trouble for us later. Do you agree?

75 per cent answered yes, 25 per cent, no.

(2) If the answer to the above question is yes, is it your opinion that the benefits which are accruing now will more than offset whatever disadvantages may develop later?

77 per cent answered yes, 18 per cent, no, and 5 per cent expressed themselves as doubtful.

(3) Do you believe that the business of this country can return to a basis of satisfactory profits regardless of whether or not further adjustments are made in the war debts?

60 per cent answered yes, 34 per cent, no, 3 per cent expressed themselves as doubtful, and 3 per cent said adjustment would be helpful.

(4) Entirely aside from considerations of your own particular business, is it your opinion that downward revisions of our tariff walls should be made?

50.5 per cent answered, yes, 49.5 per cent, no.

Of those who answered yes, 77

per cent thought the needed reductions are few, 8 per cent thought the need reductions are many, and 15 per cent thought the entire tariff structure needed reduction.

(5) Is it your opinion that the repeal or modification of the existing prohibition laws would have any material effects upon the business situation, entirely aside from the aspect of taxation?

77 per cent answered yes, 23 per cent, no.

(6) Do you look for any adverse effect upon general business as a result of Congressional uncertainty during the present session?

67 per cent answered yes, 33 per cent, no.

(7) Based upon recent performance and current indications, is it your belief that the earnings trend in your industry will be upward from this point, allowing, of course, for minor or seasonal fluctuations?

44 per cent answered yes, 56 per cent, no.

(8) If the answer to the above question is no, then do you look for the inauguration of improvement in the first quarter, the second quarter, or the last half of 1933, or later?

3 per cent suggested the first quarter, 19 per cent the second quarter and 51 per cent the last half of 1933, while 27 per cent thought improvement would come later.

My own observation would lead me to believe that this is a decently accurate picture of the mind of business as it looks at the future.

MANNERS AND EDUCATION

The revered head of Columbia university, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, said something in his annual report that warmed the cockles of my heart. He said that in his opinion, manners came before scholastic achievement. That colleges ought to send out educated gentlemen. I am for that with might and main.

We need gentlemen and ladies as leaders in the world of affairs, in every walk of life. It seemed to me lately that they were getting rather scarce. There has been name calling, fist shaking, selfishness and crudity in high places, among those from whom we expect leadership in manners and morality.

To me these are too closely allied to be separated. A gentleman is a man of honor, one whose word is as good as his bond, one whose name stands for integrity beyond all else. It has been discouraging to find men in places of responsibility who disregarded the law and had no thought of their fellow men. Many of them held degrees from universities and colleges. If any were to be trusted and respected and followed these should have been. But it was not so.

The outlook among the coming generation of college-trained young men and women was not any too promising. "Get the marks," seemed to be of first importance. Dr. Butler's message comes as a rainbow of hope in a cloudy sky. If it reaches its mark we shall know a group of cultured, gentlemanly of high attainments in the field of knowledge and in the realms of right living.

When I spoke of a young collegian about these attitudes he laughed at me saying, "Oh, we have gone by those old-fashioned notions. If you don't grab your chance when it comes somebody else will and leave you on the outside looking in. You have to get yours first and let the other fellow look out for himself." This on defense of his having taken advantage of a friend's absence and illness to secure a coveted berth.

"I'm going to change colleges this fall," said another. "If I go to this other one I'll be in touch with the boss of the district where I expect to hang out my shingle. It's best to get next to him at the start." The boss was anything but the sort of man a gentleman would think of getting in touch with.

"You mean that you are going to join the group that man leads? You know they are without conscience or honor?"

"Oh, that's all in the game. How're you going to make a living if you make yourself out better than anybody else? You'll starve to death, that's what."

What this nation needs is a few educated gentlemen who will starve to death in the cause of righteousness and honor. If character takes precedence of marks there is a chance of our getting them. And they don't starve either. They'll become the cornerstones. Here's hoping that every college in the land will rally to Dr. Butler's standard. We need gentlemen.
